

Lift Blame From Jews

Religious Liberty Plan Rejected By Pope Paul

VATICAN CITY (AP)—The Vatican Ecumenical Council today approved a historic declaration on the Jews and other non-Christians after Pope Paul VI rejected an American-led move for an immediate vote on the council's controversial religious liberty declaration.

The document on non-Christians, which says the Jews must never be considered cursed or specially blamed for the crucifixion of Christ, was approved with 1,651 prelates in favor, 242 in favor but with reservations and 99 opposed.

The declaration also makes overtures to the Hindus, Buddhists and Moslems and restates the Roman Catholic Church's opposition to discrimination or harassment on account of race, color or creed.

The declaration, one of the most controversial before the council, is not expected to be promulgated as a decree until the next council session.

During the recess that begins Saturday, it will be revised to take into account some of the reservations expressed by prelates today.

But the favorable vote means no major changes of substance can be made, and that it is only a question of time—barring unforeseen developments—before the declaration becomes a formal council decree.

Council sources said the Pope's decision denying an appeal from more than half the council for a vote on the religious liberty declaration was announced by Eugene Cardinal Tisserant as the council began the final working day of its 1964 session.

It was Cardinal Tisserant who announced Thursday that the council presidency, a steering committee of 12 cardinals, had decided not to hold a vote on the declaration at this session.

American bishops, joined by Canadians and some Europeans, then sent the Pope a petition signed by 1,400 prelates.

Without a vote, the declaration lies over until the council reconvenes, possibly in 1966. In the interim conservative opponents hope to scuttle the declaration.

The revolt of the bishops was the most sensational development since the council first assembled on Oct. 11, 1962.

Pope Paul reportedly heard another plea to allow a vote from Joseph Cardinal Frings of Germany Thursday night when the Pope met for more than an hour with a large group of cardinals.

A source who helped write the document said it was ready for a vote more than a month ago, after being revised in accordance with the debate on it last September. But he said the council's theological commission—whose top members are leading conservatives—repeatedly examined the document and delayed its submission to the council until the last minute.

LBJ Renews Drive For Great Society

SAN MARCOS, Tex. (AP)—President Johnson renewed the drive for his "great society" concept with assurance today to a college audience that it is a matter of concrete goals with specific programs already in preparation.

Returning here to take part in inauguration of a new president for the college from which he was graduated 34 years ago, Johnson said his plan for uplift is realistic and attainable—"not an idle dream or vague Utopia."

Johnson, garbed in academic robes, marched behind a color guard into the gymnasium of Southwest Texas State College to make his address.

Before he got to the campus, Johnson got in a full quota of handshaking and, indirectly, caused a motorcade mishap in which his wife's car was bumped from behind. No one was hurt.

Driving to the campus from a golf course where his helicopter landed, Johnson ordered the motorcade stopped so he could greet some power plant workers.

Winter Nips At Midwest

Cold-wave Warning For Mid-America; Snow In Forecast

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Bitter cold weather blasted Indian summer right out of the picture today as blizzard-like conditions stirred up the Dakotas, Iowa, Nebraska and Minnesota.

The mercury tumbled to the near-zero mark and forecasters said -2 to -15 was on its way in eastern North Dakota and northern Minnesota.

Winds gusted up to 70 m.p.h. at Grand Island, Neb., and up to 60 m.p.h. at Sioux City in northwestern Iowa.

Some parts of southwestern and central Minnesota had as much as seven inches of snow. There was three to four inches reported at Mankato, Minn., while blowing snow cut visibility to zero at times in the Albert Lea and Austin, Minn., area.

Gale warnings flew on the Great Lakes and cold wave warnings were in effect for the Dakotas, western Minnesota, western Iowa and most of eastern and central Nebraska. Hazardous driving conditions were widespread in the north central and Great Lakes sections.

In Chicago 20-degree weather failed to halt a dozen gardeners from planting 25,000 tulip bulbs in the snow in the Grant Park area. Wet streets in the city and suburbs produced a few more accidents than usual. Winds were up to 40 m.p.h.

'Cold Wave' Creeps Into Missouri

KANSAS CITY (AP)—The term "cold wave" crept into the Missouri forecast today for the first time this season. The cold will affect all of the state tonight.

A cold wave in weather bureau terminology requires a 20 or more degree drop in temperature to 15 degrees or lower during a 24-hour period.

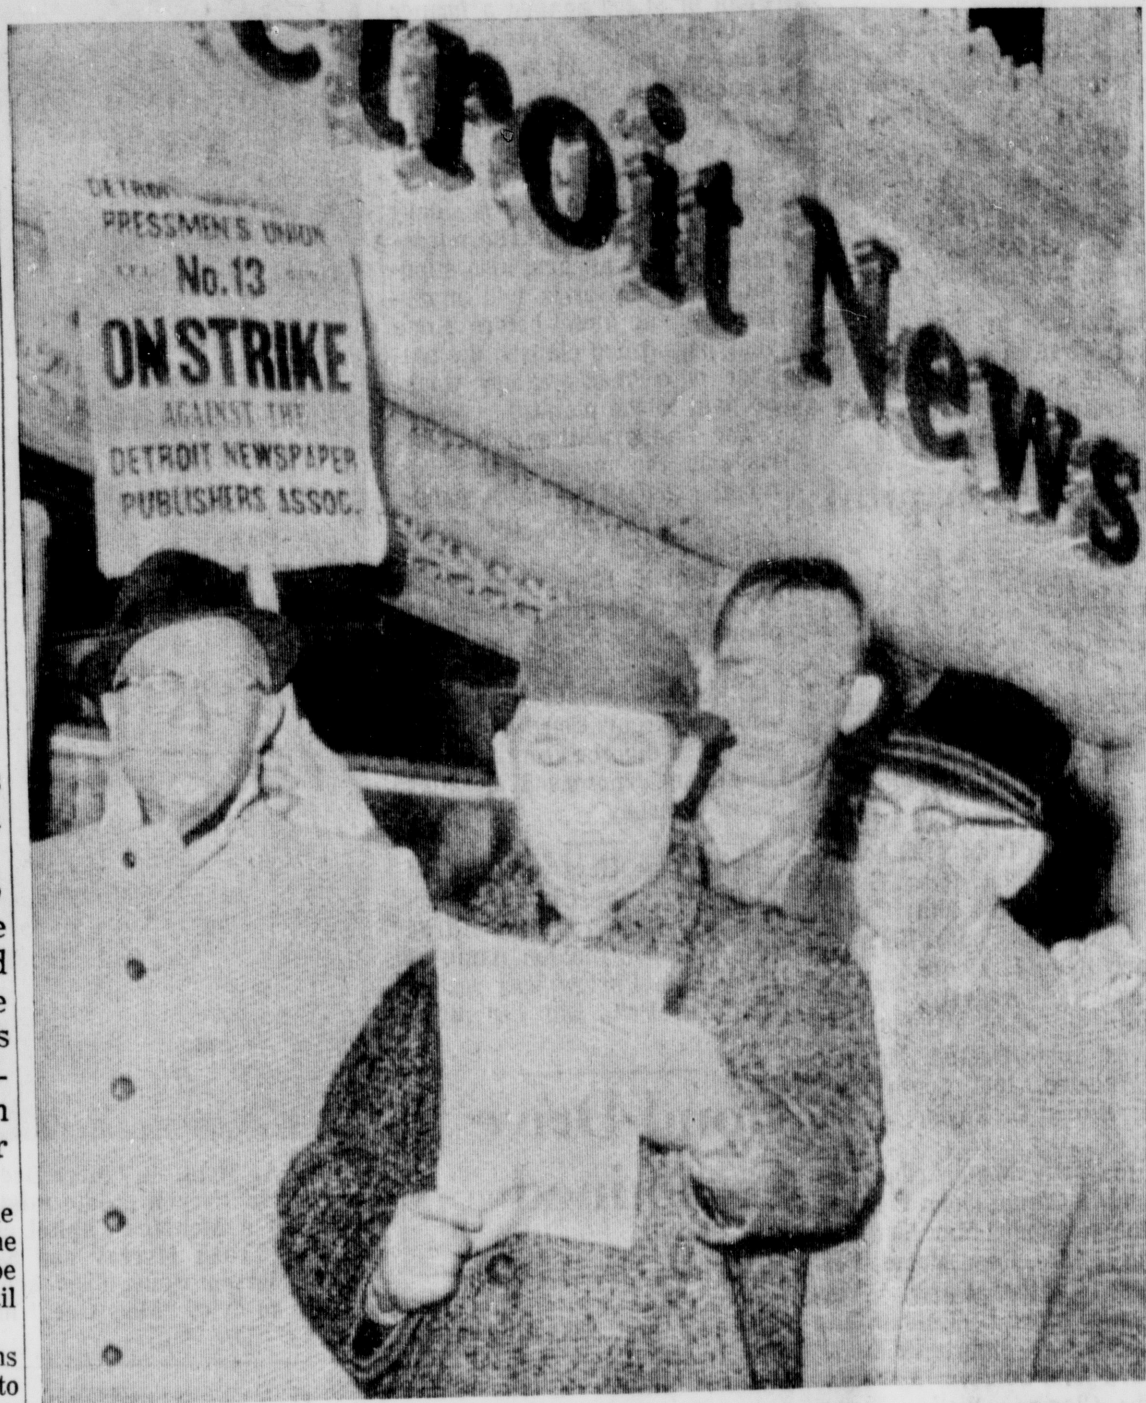

Temperatures were to drop steadily through today, the weather bureau said, to a low of zero to 10 above tonight in the northeast and central parts of the state and to 5-15 elsewhere.

Winds will reach or exceed 50 miles an hour late today in the east and south, except for the extreme southwest, abating during the night in the northwest, where velocity was expected in the 20-40 mph range.

Snow flurries and snow squalls are forecast for the central and south tonight. It will be clear to partly cloudy in the northwest.

Mostly fair and colder is forecast in the northwest Saturday with highs in the 20s. Sunny and cold is the forecast in the east and south with the temperature range 15-20 northeast and in the 20s elsewhere.

Overnight readings all were below freezing in the state, down to 23 at Kirksville. It was warmest in Kansas City with 31. Precipitation in the 24 hours ended at 6 a. m. ranged from a trace at Grandview and Joplin to about a half inch at Cape Girardeau.

DETROIT—The longest newspaper strike in Detroit history, 130-days, came to a close late Thursday at a secret meeting arranged by United Auto Workers President Walter P. Reuther. Representatives of the Detroit News and Detroit Free Press and striking local 13 of the Printing Pressmen's Union reached a tentative agreement which will be placed before the unions membership for ratification. Pickets are shown reading UPI's story on the end of the strike. (UPI Telephoto)

McNamara Says Action Final

Base Closings Draw Stream of Protests

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara says his decision to shut down 95 obsolete and surplus military bases and plants is "absolutely, unequivocally, without qualification irrevocable."

This statement by the strong-willed defense chief in announcing the decision Thursday allowed small hope that any of the anguished cries from congressmen, governors and mayors would change his mind.

The only thing that might, McNamara told a news conference, would be some new evidence—"and the chances of that are damned small."

"We have made 574 decisions in this area in the last 3½ years, and we have not changed one yet," McNamara asserted.

The latest stroke of McNamara's economy scalpel cut at two naval shipyards employing a total of 17,000 workers, six bomber bases, Army and Air Force training sites, arsenals, radar posts and other installations in 33 states and the District of Columbia.

In all, 80 bases in the United States and 15 overseas were put on the chopping block. The foreign bases, in Europe and the Western Hemisphere, were not named.

The actions will be completed for the most part by mid-1966, with the Portsmouth, N.H., Navy Yard getting 10 years to phase out.

When the job is done, McNamara said, the defense budget will be lighter by about $477 million a year and the payroll will be reduced by 63,401 "without in any way reducing military effectiveness."

The defense secretary disclosed that 150 more of the early-generation, intercontinental ballistic missiles—liquid-fuel, relatively slow-reacting Atlas E and F models and Titan I hydrogen missiles—will be retired from 14 bases by mid-1965.

Although these ICBMs have never been fired, McNamara said they "have served their purpose"—giving the United States a stronger deterrent while the force of fast-firing, solid-fuel Minuteman missiles was growing.

There now are 650 Minutemen in place, each mounting a hydrogen warhead and each able to strike at least 6,300 miles away. By next summer, there will be 800 of them, plus 54 Titan II missiles in underground, blastproof holes.

California led the states with 13 bases ticketed for closing or consolidation, including merger of the Mare Island and San Francisco shipyards under a single commander.

New York will lose seven installations, including the Brooklyn Navy Yard and the Brooklyn Army Terminal. Texas and Washington State follow with four bases each.

As he has done in past base-closing announcements, McNamara said the government would offer new job opportunities to all career employees affected, would pay for moving them to a new job and would retain them if necessary.

When the defense secretary appeared before a crowded news conference to disclose details, the newswires already were alive with reports from congressmen and others on specific bases, and with the first of a stream of protests and denunciations.

New Threat to Carlson

No Resistance By Congo Rebels

KINDU, the Congo (AP)—Congolese troops and their white mercenary leaders raced northward today toward rebel Stanleyville. There were no reports of rebel resistance.

Congolese army headquarters announced the advancing column, which left Kindu Thursday, had entered the Pania district 150 miles north of Kindu. They still had 180 road miles between them and Stanleyville.

En route they must cross the 300-yard-wide Lova River at Yumbi. Normally, there is a motor launch for a ferry, but it was not known if it was in working order.

Radio Stanleyville broadcast a warning from rebel leader Christophe Gbenye that "any attack provoked by the Americans may end the stay of execution of Paul Carlson." Carlson, an American medical missionary, was sentenced to death as a spy but his execution was postponed until Monday.

The Congolese army's commander in chief, Gen. Joseph Mobutu, predicted in Kindu that his forces would take Stanleyville by next week.

Maj. Michael Hoare, a South African mercenary, moved out of Kindu Thursday with his 5th Commando Group and headed for Pania. A single unpaved road through the tropical rain forest is the only route north from Kindu to Stanleyville.

Gov. Dalton Speaker At Sub Launching

NEWPORT NEWS, Va. (AP)—Gov. John M. Dalton of Missouri will be principal speaker Saturday at ceremonies launching the new Polaris submarine Lewis and Clark at the Newport News Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Co.

The 425-foot ship is named for Virginia-born explorers Meriwether Lewis and William Clark, who together led an expedition in 1804-06 from St. Louis to the Pacific Coast. The expedition helped open up United States territory west of the Mississippi.

Bid On Disarmament Progress from Thant

$113 Million UN Deficit Told In Annual Report

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—Secretary-General U Thant called today for greater progress in disarmament in 1965 and proposed talks among the nuclear powers, including Communist China, to check the nuclear arms race.

Thant's call was contained in his 10,000-word introduction to the annual report on the state of the world—as he sees it—to the U.N. General Assembly opening Dec. 1.

His statement dwelt briefly on the precarious financial situation and wound up with the hope there will be a solution before the assembly meets.

Thant reported a $113.3-million deficit as of Sept. 30, arrears of $112.3 million on the Congo and Middle East peace-keeping accounts, and only $24.8 million cash in hand. He said cash resources would practically disappear in six months unless a payments solution is found.

The secretary-general made no reference to U.S. determination to challenge the General Assembly voting rights of the Soviet bloc and France unless they pay peacekeeping arrears.

Thant said disarmament questions continue to have high priority on the international agenda, despite the advances marked by the limited test ban treaty which he noted "remains neither universal nor comprehensive."

Communist China and France have not signed it, and there has been no agreement to ban underground tests. The treaty bans testing in the air, sea and in space.

Thant called reduction and elimination of nuclear delivery vehicles the key issue of general and complete disarmament and noted some measure of agreement at the Geneva disarmament talks last summer.

Transcript Nearly Ready in Ruby Case

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—Short-hand reporters expect to complete a typed record of the Jack Ruby murder trial this week, A.D. Jim Bowie, district attorney, said Thursday.

When the record is completed, Bowie said, clerks will send it to the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals in Austin and it will set a time for hearing arguments from lawyers.

The appeals court must decide whether Ruby got a fair trial when a jury sentenced him to the electric chair for the murder of Lee Harvey Oswald.

Belgium 'To Intervene'

Troops Poised For Congo Move

BRUSSELS (AP)—Belgian paratroopers are ready to intervene if needed to save the lives of whites held as hostages in the Congo's rebel-held Stanleyville, the government announced tonight.

A foreign affairs ministry statement said a battalion of Belgian paratroopers was waiting further orders on the island of Ascension, off the West Coast of Africa.

The announcement said that "with the assistance of the U.S.

Air Force, the first battalion of Belgian paratroopers has been transported to the island of Ascension, where they are staying with the authorization of the British government."

The statement described the move as "preparatory measures so as to undertake, if needed, a rescue operation for purely humanitarian reasons."

Brussels sources said the first contingent of 500 men took off last Tuesday from Kleine Brogel, Belgium. Reinforcements were due to leave today, these informants said.

A thousand white hostages are reported held by Congolese rebels in Stanleyville.

The United States has base facilities and landing rights in Ascension Island, off the coast of West Africa. It was there, London diplomats said they understood, that the Belgian troops were being transported. Ascension is 2,900 miles from Stanleyville.

A column of the central Congolese government is advancing on rebel-held territory in and around Stanleyville.

The rebels have sentenced an American missionary, Dr. Paul Carlson, to death. His execution has been stayed on the appeal of Prime Minister Jomo Kenyatta of Kenya.

Ratification Lacking

Newspaper Strike Pact In Detroit

DETROIT (AP)—Union and management in Detroit's 129-day-old newspaper strike agreed on settlement terms today—with an assist from Walter P. Reuther, United Auto Workers president.

Representatives of the struck Detroit News and Detroit Free Press and Freeman Frazee, president of striking Pressmen's Union Local 13 announced the agreement about 1 a.m. after meeting in secret for four hours at UAW headquarters.

Frazee said he will recommend ratification at a union membership meeting Saturday morning.

"We're immensely happy," Reuther said.

Reuther said he and UAW assistants worked out the compromise on the lone issue that had been holding back an end to the strike. The walkout has cut Detroit off from its regular daily papers since July 13 when the pressmen and the affiliated Plate and Paperhandlers Local 10 walked out over new contract terms.

The lone obstacle to agreement on a new pressmen's contract was how many men should man new eight-unit presses at the News, an afternoon paper. This had been a major issue from the start of the strike and was the only issue during the last two weeks. The plate handlers ratified a contract agreement a week and a half ago.

The union insisted on a basic

Complete Shutdown At Ford

DETROIT (AP)—All auto production by Ford Motor Co. will grind to a halt tonight because of what the firm calls local plant strike tie-ups.

A spokesman said total employment affected by the strike would go to 80,000 tonight—just about half of Ford's hourly employment. Some parts production will be continued for a time.

Top level negotiations were scheduled this afternoon, but were postponed until 10 a.m. Saturday.

The last producing link in Ford's lines of cars, the Mustang, will be out of action after the anticipated closing tonight of a Milpitas, Calif., assembly plant, Ford said.

Normally, Ford makes 10,000 cars a day.

A Ford spokesman at company headquarters in Dearborn confirmed that the Mustang has been the only car produced since Tuesday.

With between 75,000 and 80,000 men laid off, Ford has been employing only about half its total work force this week.

The company has blamed nine United Auto Workers local-plant strikes that began Nov. 6 for the layoffs. The strikes had been over local agreements supplementing the national Ford-UAW agreement which was reached Sept. 18.

Agreements have been reached at all but three of the nine plants.

One plant still on strike is the key parts plant in Sterling Township, Mich. The other two are car and truck assembly factories in Wayne, Mich.

M. M. Cummins, Ford labor relations director, said Thursday the effects of the three strikes would be sufficient to halt all Ford production by next week.

BULLETIN

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (AP)—A government spokesman today warned Belgium that any unilateral decision to send troops into the Congo would be "aggression"—but if a proposal were first made to the Congo government, "the latter would study it with favor."

The spokesman, Emmanuel Sinda, also warned the United States against negotiating with the Stanleyville rebel regime without Congo government agreement, and went on: "Belgium's unilateral decision to send elite troops (paratroopers) to the Congo to protect her citizens would be aggression."

School for Retarded
At Milan Applauded

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A school for retarded at Milan, Mo., was cited Thursday among recent Junior Chamber of Commerce achievements.

The Missouri school was included in a list of achievements by Eugene Oberdorfer II of Atlanta, Ga., chairman of the Jaycees National Committee on Mental Health and Mental Retardation.

Oberdorfer will take part in dedication of a new school for retarded children Saturday at Wahiawa, Hawaii.

"We are joining the crusade against mental illness," Oberdorfer told delegates to the annual meeting of the National Association for Mental Health.

Fete Georgia
Race Losers
At Banquet

SAVANNAH, Ga. (AP) — Political losers were winners for a night in this port city, taking the spotlight at an extraordinary banquet staged in their honor.

The affair was such a success that even the winners went home smiling, although they spent three hours Thursday night seated at ordinary tables among the 600 guests.

The losers occupied the head table, of course, basking in the applause and the laurels denied them at the polls in the Nov. 3 general election.

There were 10 losers and 26 winners — 16 won uncontested races — in the Savannah area in local, state and congressional races. All but 7 attended "The Losers Are Winners" banquet sponsored by the Savannah Area Chamber of Commerce.

It was the brain child of the Chamber's Public Affairs Committee, headed by Chairman S. Joseph Ward. Some said the occasion was unique, at least in circles frequented by banqueting politicians.

The losers certainly never saw anything like it before. All 10 of them — 8 Republicans, 1 Democrat, and 1 independent — sat tall in their chairs in the flag-decked hall.

Each was introduced, arose to thunderous applause, and then sat down.

Then the winners had a moment of group glory. Their names were read off, and they all stood up together.

That was about it except for presentation of Democracy in Action plaques to losers and winners alike.

They read: "As responsible citizens of Savannah and Chatham County, for making democracy work in our community, you are hereby cited, commended and congratulated for your desire to help maintain our system of government — of, by and for the people."

The losers and the winners didn't have anything to say, publicly, and that was a shock to other politicians present. But Dr. Carl S. Winters of Chicago discussed the free enterprise system and described the unusual banquet as one of "healing significance."

Law License
Is Awarded
Posthumously

WEST CHICAGO, Ill. (AP) — A crippled former Marine Corps pilot was admitted posthumously to the Illinois Bar Thursday, climaxing an 18-year story of courage and patience.

The admission of the late Donald D. Harries Jr. of Duluth, Minn., believed to be the first time a law license was awarded posthumously in Illinois, came a little more than one month after Harries died.

Harries, 43, was a quadriplegic since 1946. While attending law school he wrote papers for 10 years with a pencil clenched between his teeth in a hospital ward.

In 1946, Harries was at the University of Minnesota studying for a law degree. He fell while tumbling in a gymnasium and never again had the use of his arms or legs.

Harries was admitted to Hines Veterans Hospital where for almost seven years, he was virtually helpless. Then, gradually, he learned to write by holding a pencil between his teeth.

With encouragement from a Red Cross volunteer worker, Wmignon Waring of West Chicago, Harries began studying law again. He enrolled at Loyola University of Chicago.

"There were 50 men in that ward at times," Mrs. Waring said. "It was very hard for him to study."

Studying was further complicated, she said, because Harries could not sit in his wheelchair too long.

In June 1963, he was granted a law degree from Loyola.

Harries passed the written Bar examination last September.

While waiting to hear if he would be admitted to the bar, Harries underwent a kidney operation, regarded as serious surgery for a quadriplegic. He appeared to be recovering after the operation, but suddenly his condition changed and he died on Oct. 14.

Chase $2,000 Check

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — A sudden gust of wind sent a bank customer at a drive-in window and would-be helpers in hot pursuit for a $2,000 check blown out of the customer's hand.

The valuable piece of paper — pushed by 40-mile-an-hour winds — was outdistancing its pursuers when E. E. Shaddix, a policeman, pounced on it.

Mrs. Marie Jurries, 69, Route 4, suffered minor injuries in an accident at Sixth and Emmett about 4 p.m. Thursday when the car in which she was riding collided with a truck.

Mrs. Jurries was with her husband, Charles Fred Jurries, 72, headed west on Sixth in his 1954 Ford sedan, and the other vehicle, a 1965 Ford pickup truck, driven by Richard L. Lukacs, 33, 1006 North Grand, was headed north on Emmett.

The front of the Ford sedan was extensively damaged while right door and right rear fender on the truck were damaged.

Mrs. Jurries was taken to the Bothwell Hospital in the Ewing ambulance where she was examined by Dr. T. J. Hopkins. She suffered a contusion and abrasion of the forehead and a bruise below the right knee. She was treated and released to go to her home.

The Howerton wrecker towed the Jurries car from the scene, while the truck was driven off under its own power.

Circuit Court

William A. Labus asks a judgment of $1,250 against a former Sedalia, George Norris, now of Thayer, Kan., in a suit filed Thursday in Circuit Court.

Labus contends he entered into a contract April 8, 1964, with Norris to operate Pete's Motel, 1001 South Limit, for a salary at $250 per month. The agreement, Labus alleges, also stipulated that if Norris sold or disposed of the motel before a one year period had elapsed the balance of a year's salary would be paid to the plaintiff.

The Labus petition says Norris sold the motel after seven months and judgment is sought for the remaining five-month period.

William F. Brown and James T. Buckley are attorneys for the plaintiff.

Mildred C. Augur filed a petition in Circuit Court Thursday seeking a divorce from Herbert E. Augur. Thomas T. Keating is her attorney.

Daisy Mae Hess was granted a divorce in Circuit Court Tuesday from James Alfred Hess and her maiden name of Daisy Mae Farlow was restored. J. R. Fritz was her attorney.

Bond Drive
Explained
To Kiwanis

Kiwanis met Thursday noon at Bothwell Hotel with J. D. Walker, director of the Children's Therapy Center, as the speaker, introduced by Dr. J. C. Alexander, program chairman.

Walker was assisted by Miss Suzanne Slaker, Miss Janet Vavra and Miss Laverne McNabb, all on the staff at the Center.

Walker told of the bond drive for the center which will be held Sunday, Nov. 22, and described a real case of a 19-year-old boy referred by the family doctor to the Center, following a car accident which had resulted in a brain injury. Following the surgery he had no speech and the loss of his limbs, from which he developed an ulcer. Through rehabilitation treatment this boy is now able to speak and is improving otherwise.

Miss Slaker is a speech therapist and said that the goal was normal speech. Problems involved were discussed and overcome.

Miss McNabb, physical therapist, said that the goal was use of limbs again, and she listed the problems confronting her and how they were straightened out.

Miss Vavra, occupational therapist, discussed methods of overcoming the problems of handicapped children she worked with and illustrated what she did.

The meeting was presided over by the president, M. L. Edwards, and invocation was by Sylvan Woolery. Mrs. David Eisenstein played the "Star Spangled Banner."

Guests introduced were Hank Mayhoff with Monty McQuitty and C. R. Hyde with John St. Clair.

New members initiated were: J. A. Schmidt, W. C. Garton and Ed Woodrel.

Driver Education
Solution to Deaths

ST. CHARLES, Mo. (AP) — Lt. George Thurmond of the Missouri Highway Patrol urged Thursday better driver education and more legislation to decrease the number of deaths on the state's highways.

Lt. Thurmond, speaking at a regional traffic forum, said the increased number of cars on the highways are not to blame. There is plenty of room on the roads if motorists will drive properly, he said.

The 1,149 persons killed on Missouri roads this year is only 19 below the record 1,166 of last year.

Lt. Thurmond suggested that every high school should have driver education courses. He also urged legislation allowing a chemical breath test for suspected drunken drivers; periodic re-examination of drivers, particularly an eye test, and cutting speed limits on highways where the present limit is found to be excessive.

A Small Village Strategic To Both Sides In Viet Nam

EDITOR'S NOTE—American hopes for a breakthrough in the battle to win South Viet Nam's peasants away from the Communists and over to the government are centered south of Saigon in a key area where the town of Phu My is typical of many.

AP Photographer Horst Faas accompanied Vietnamese troops that reoccupied the town in December of 1963 after it had been in the hands of the Communist Viet Cong for some weeks. He revisited the town early this month. Here is his report.

By HORST FAAS

PHU MY, South Viet Nam (AP) — Three government intelligence operatives, dressed in civilian clothes, walked casually through Phu My's pagoda market, brushing past food vendors and trinket stores.

They halted suddenly on seeing three other young men, also in civilian garb, approaching them.

In Phu My, where a military and political battle has been waged all this year between the government and the Communist

This incident illustrates the level at which the battle for the allegiance of Phu My's 5,000 people is being waged.

Here in the steamy Mekong River Delta, the plans and strategies formulated by American and Vietnamese authorities in Saigon appear simply — in the digging of a well, the building of more barbed wire fences, and the dispensing of medicine.

The Viet Cong strategy is equally simple at this level — undo all that the government has done.

The Communists got a good start after the collapse of the Diem regime. During November and December 1963, they occupied Phu My and made it over.

The government reoccupied the area in late December, but the pattern all this year has remained the same.

The more fences erected round paddyclands and hamlets, the more cut barbed wire is left dangling. As more and more civic action cadres troop in from Saigon after courses in public relations, they find frustration because of the efforts of the always persistent Communist cadres.

Phu My was picked as a key area for pacification for several reasons. One was that it lies in a fertile region about 40 miles southeast of Saigon in Dinh Tuong Province. Make advances in Phu My, authorities in Saigon argued, and you have set the pattern for much of the delta.

In their brief occupation, the Communists had shown what they could do. First they wrecked the symbols of the enemy — the church, government offices, the schools, the village bridge and the market place.

Then they put up signs, Communist slogans were painted on buildings, propaganda was daubed along market walls. A huge concrete monument was erected.

Viet Cong administrators imposed taxes on houses and rice crops, and gave constant propaganda lectures. A highly organized political structure was created among the villagers.

Finally, the Viet Cong ordered the building of a massive series of earthenworks for protection against attack.

But when the government decided to challenge the Communists with a military force in late December, the Viet Cong left without a fight.

4 Churches
Unite In Schellsburg

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

In hundreds of small communities across the country, clusters of separate churches struggle along on their own, each with meager membership, scant finances and often with little program and no pastors.

That was the situation for years in the village of Schellsburg, Pa., in the Allegheny Mountains.

This Sunday, however, the town's four historic churches — Lutheran, Methodist, Presbyterian and Reformed — are doing something about the problem. They're uniting.

"Behold, how good and how pleasant it is for brethren to dwell together in unity," goes a psalm being used in the services officially inaugurating the new United Church of Schellsburg.

State and national denominational leaders of the four congregations have approved the merger, which has been under negotiation since 1961, and are taking part in the founding ceremonies this weekend.

"It is a translation into reality of the frequently voiced cliché that, 'We are all working for the same end,'" commented the Rev. Dr. Paul C. Shumaker, president of the Penn West Conference of the United Church of Christ.

This fellowship union of mind and heart sets a pattern that the executives of the denominations involved hope will be emulated in many similar communities.

All four of the churches have historic backgrounds: St. Matthew's Evangelical Lutheran, founded in 1806, part of the Lutheran Church in America; Schellsburg Presbyterian, started in 1833, part of the United Presbyterian Church; Schellsburg Methodist, started in 1890, and St. John's Reformed, started in 1896, part of the United Church of Christ.

They have been hard-pressed for years to maintain their separate characters in the face of declining population and income in the once prosperous dairy region. Schellsburg's present population is 288.

None of the churches had enough members to support regular services. St. Matthew's had 68 members, the Methodist church 79, the Presbyterian congregation 55, and St. John's 82.

Each managed to keep going by sharing a ministry with other churches of their denominations in Bedford County. Each congregation held services only every other week.

There was no resident minister in town.

Unity talks started four years ago. The interdenominational Pennsylvania Council of Churches and the Bedford County Council of Churches helped bring representatives of the four denominations together.

By July 1963, the churches were holding joint worship services, alternating among the buildings. But members had been unable to agree on which denomination they would part of when, and if, merger occurred.

By last June, more people were attending church in Schellsburg than oldtimers could recall. On Oct. 4, more than 200 worshippers, including children, were on hand for a vote on official merger.

It passed overwhelmingly, with the newly united congregation to be affiliated with the United Church of Christ.

Renames Rankin
As President

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. (AP) — The Missouri Livestock Feeders Association Thursday reelected its establish a federal system of Tarkio.

The association adopted a resolution opposing any move to establish a federal system if guaranteeing a minimum level of income for farmers.

Government subsidization of income stifles individual incentive and is impossible to administer fairly, the resolution stated. It said commodities which have remained free from government programs continue to make the greatest contribution to farm income and the least to farm problems.

Other officers: James McCord, St. Joseph, 1st vice president.

Carl Halferty, Plattsburg, re-named 2nd vice president.

Jack Runyan of Easton, secretary-treasurer.

Directors — Dennis Downing, Stewartville; Gordon Roberts, Maitland; Oliver Marshall of Marshall; Miller Carpenter, Sumner; Lawrence Knepper, Tarkio; and Earl Loudon, Sumner.

Ann Landers

Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: I went East on a trip several months ago and visited relatives I had not seen in 15 years. Something both wonderful and terrifying happened. I fell in love with my first cousin.

Geraldine (not her real name) is 21 and has one more year of college. I am 24 and have been working for two years. When I saw her I was speechless. I remembered her as a freckle-faced brat with braids, all legs and elbows. She is now a beautiful, intelligent young woman.

We have said nothing to the family but we plan to be married when she graduates. Please tell me what you know about marriages between first cousins. Is it true that their children are often half-witted? Are you for or against it?—KISSIN' KIN.

Dear Kin: I am neither for it nor against it.

It is NOT true that first cousins produce half-witted children. Inheritable physical defects are likely to show up in the offspring when first cousins marry. However, normally healthy people need have no fears.

Some states do not permit first cousins to marry. If you two want to marry, however, go to a state where you can be married and good luck to you both.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I have been separated for three months. After considerable soul-searching I've decided divorce is the only answer.

My husband's mother is one of the finest women who ever lived. I love her as much as I love my own mother. Her health is failing and I want to continue our warm relationship. My friends say this is wrong because my husband plans to remarry as soon as he is free. They feel I should cut all ties with his family in fairness to his new wife.

Have you ever heard of a situation like mine? What is your advice? — WANTING TO DO WHAT'S RIGHT.

Dear Wanting: Yes, I have. When Faye Emerson divorced Elliot Roosevelt she is reported to have said, "The saddest thing about this divorce, so far as I am concerned, is not that I am shedding Elliot but that I am losing a wonderful mother-in-law." After the divorce Miss Emerson and Mrs. Roosevelt remained good friends. I suggest you do the same.

Dear Ann Landers: Congratulations. Rarely does one see in print the courageous stand that adoptive parents should be considered before the biological parent. Although the law clearly states that the welfare of the child is paramount, the natural parent usually gets the break.

If the mother who wrote to you thinks she will have an easy time getting her child away from his adoptive parents by complaining that she was "emotionally overwrought" when she signed the release papers, she has another think coming. She had an opportunity to withdraw

Rail Merger Under Study By Officials

CHICAGO (AP) — Talks of a possible merger of the Santa Fe and St. Louis & San Francisco railways have started.

Announcement that officials of the railroads are looking into merger plans was made Thursday in a statement by E. S. Marsh, Santa Fe president, and L. W. Menk, Frisco president.

Marsh also said that previous studies between Santa Fe and Missouri Pacific are being deferred for the present.

Also Thursday, stockholders of the Chicago and North Western and the Chicago Great Western approved merger of their companies. This combination would be a step in a proposed later merger with the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific railroad, blending the carriers into a single 20,975-mile railroad serving 15 states. It would be known as the Chicago, Milwaukee and North Western Railway Co.

The Santa Fe operates 12,995 miles of track from Chicago to the Pacific coast and Texas ports on the Gulf of Mexico. The St. Louis-San Francisco operates 5,000 miles serving Missouri, Kansas, Arkansas, Oklahoma, Texas, Tennessee, Mississippi, Alabama and Florida. Despite its name, it does not link St. Louis and San Francisco on its own lines.

Marsh, attending sessions of the Association of American Railroads Thursday in New York, said it is too early to discuss details of the possible Santa Fe-Frisco merger. He said "we have been looking into various possibilities for some time and the Frisco seems to hold some promise of producing worthwhile economies in railroad transportation and service. The studies are designed to determine the details which could be worked out, and to determine whether the whole proposition might be feasible."

Turkey Cost May Please Housewife

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The price of turkey, main attraction of the Thanksgiving table, should please housewives this year.

One large food chain lists 18-24 lb. turkeys at 31 cents a pound in its New York area outlets; 10-18 lb. turkeys at 35 cents a pound; and turkeys under 10 lbs. at 39 cents a pound. The prices range from two to four cents a pound below those of Thanksgiving week last year.

Thanksgiving's other traditional items may be more expensive. Cranberry prices may be up in many areas. Onions, carrots and canned pumpkin appear less abundant. Potatoes, scarce for months, may be almost double last year's price.

Broccoli, cabbage, celery, cucumbers, lettuce, peppers, radishes and squash fill vegetable bins across the nation.

Roast beef is still a bargain at many meat counters. Pork roast and ham are attractively priced in many areas.

Yule Gifts Gathering By Episcopalians

The children of the Calvary Episcopal Church School will bring gifts to the church Sunday morning. The gifts which the children bring will provide Christmas gifts for boys and girls of Trinity Church, a mission to the Indians, in Wapeton, N.D. A special service of Thanksgiving has been arranged by the members of the Church School staff for 10 o'clock Sunday morning at which time the boys and girls will present their gifts at the altar of the church. This event in Calvary Church is part of an observance which will be taking place throughout the whole Diocese of West Missouri of the Episcopal Church. For a number of years the boys and girls of this diocese have provided Christmas gifts for the boys and girls of the Indian Missions in North Dakota. This is one of the projects of the department of Christian Education of the Diocese.

The Holy Eucharist will be celebrated at the 8 o'clock service Sunday morning. The Church School convenes at 9:45 a.m. An adult discussion group meets at the same time with the rector leading the discussion. The 11 o'clock service will be morning prayer with sermon by the rector. The girls' choir will sing "O Saviour Sweet" by Bach for an offertory anthem. A nursery is provided during this service. The Episcopal Young Churchmen will meet on Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the parish hall. Mr. and Mrs. George Lockett will be sponsoring this group Sunday.

A committee of women, representative of all the women of the parish, will meet on Monday morning at 10 o'clock in the Parish Hall, to evaluate the activities, structure, and purpose of women in the parish, and to plan for the future.

Acolyte Training for fourth and fifth grade boys is scheduled for Wednesday afternoon at 4.

The members of Calvary Church are asked to attend the Thanksgiving service which is being held in the First Baptist Church Wednesday evening.

A Thanksgiving Day Eucharist will be celebrated in the church Thursday morning at 9:30.

The church is open every day for anyone who desires to come in to be quiet, or to pray, or to reflect.

Christ Lutheran Plans Thanksgiving Service

A Thanksgiving eve service is planned by Christ Lutheran Church, West 11th and Thompson Blvd. It will be held at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, Nov. 25th, with a fellowship hour following in the church basement.

Sunday the 8:30 and 10:45 services at Christ Lutheran will mark the end of the Christian Church year. The message for this last Sunday in Trinity will be, "God Has An Answer To Our Longings." It is the last in a series on the Psalms under the theme, "God Has An Answer."

The Luther Leaguers will meet at 6 p.m. Sunday to go to Russellville for a Conference Luther League Hootenanny.

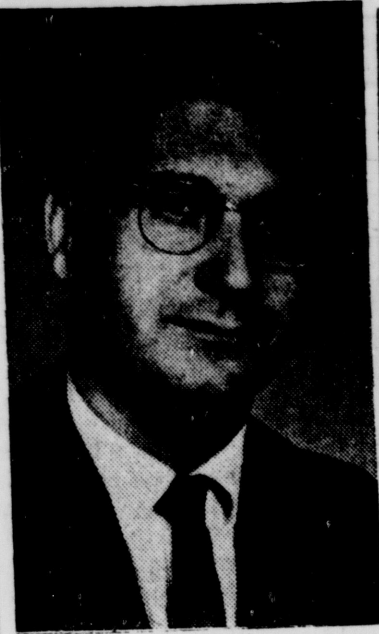

November's Brotherhood meeting will be Tuesday evening at 7:30 in the church basement. No senior choir or confirmation class meetings are scheduled this week, due to the holiday weekend.

Rev. Cheffey Speaks On Gratitude Sunday

The Rev. Charles B. Cheffey, pastor of First Methodist Church, will deliver a message Sunday entitled "A Christian's Gratitude." The Chancel choir will sing "Praise the Lord, O Jerusalem" by Maunders and the Chapel choir will sing "Our Heavenly Father in Love Everlasting" by Hutson.

Senior MYF will meet Sunday, 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. and will continue their study on "Methodist Beliefs." The program committee is composed of Sylvia Thompson, Janice Rundlett, Ruth Cheffey, and Steve Rodick, with Mr. and Mrs. Ewing Gibson, adult supervisors.

Worshippers from First Church will attend the community Thanksgiving service to be held at First Baptist Church Wednesday evening.

REV. RONALD DENTON

Church of Nazarene To Hold Missionary Services Sunday

The first Church of the Nazarene, 120 South Park, will be honoring the missionaries of the denomination Sunday. The Sunday morning worship service will be concerned with world missions and the annual Thanksgiving offering will be taken at the close of the service. The Church of the Nazarene has about 600 missionaries and this one offering last year raised over one and half million dollars.

The evening service, starting at 7:30 p.m., will present a missionary family from Brazil, Rev. and Mrs. Ronald Denton. Rev. Denton started his missionary work in 1947 and has spent most of his time in Brazil. The missionary service will present the work of the Church of the Nazarene in Brazil. There will be colored slides shown and a message of missionary character will be given.

Rev. Denton was born in Ohio. He graduated from Asbury College, Wilmore, Ky., in 1945, and attended special mission courses in Nyack college, Nyack, N. Y. Prior to his assignment overseas Rev. Denton pastored the Beacon, New York Church of the Nazarene.

The church invites you to attend.

J. Westmoreland Calvary Baptist Guest Sunday

Rev. James Westmoreland will deliver the mission messages to the Calvary Baptist Church Sunday. He will be speaking in both the 10:45 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. worship services. Rev. Westmoreland is a native of Tennessee, a graduate of Oklahoma Baptist University and of the New Orleans Baptist Theological Seminary. He has completed his first term as a Southern Baptist foreign missionary. He will be telling of his mission work and showing curios and other items of interest.

Mrs. Westmoreland will accompany him. She will speak to the Intermediates on Intermediate Day this Sunday. The day will begin with a breakfast at the church. This will be followed by the missionary message of Mrs. Westmoreland.

At the noon hour Sunday the Fellowship Union of Training Union will be having a basket dinner at the church.

The Woman's Missionary Union will have its monthly meeting on Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. Mrs. Walker DeLapp, president, will preside at the meeting.

The pastor, Rev. Charles Hendrickson, will deliver the Thanksgiving message at the Hour of Power service Wednesday evening at 7:30. The Sunday School officers and teachers and auxiliaries will meet at 7.

In the Sunday School at 9:30 a.m. each department superintendent will be conducting a special service for Pledge Day. This is the day that the members of the Sunday School and church "pledge" how much they will give to the church per week during 1965. In the morning worship hour the church will vote to adopt the new budget for 1965. After the assembly hour, Sunday School teachers will teach the Bible to the class members and visitors.

The Baptist Training Union meets for assembly at 6:15 p.m. Sunday. Following the devotional period, members go to their unions for a time of Bible instruction. This month they are studying about worship.

Loyalty Sunday, Communion At St. Paul's

Loyalty Sunday will be observed at St. Paul's Lutheran Church Sunday. The homes of the congregation will be visited in the afternoon, and members will make their commitments to the 1965 program.

Visitors will be commissioned in the morning services. The Rev. Walter F. Strickert will preach on the topic, "Be Faithful and Wise." Holy Communion will be celebrated in both services.

The adult instruction class will meet in the educational building during the Sunday School hour, beginning at 9:15 a.m.

Sunday evening the choir will meet for rehearsal at 7. Boy Scout Troop 69 will meet Monday evening at 7.

Tuesday evening the board of education will meet at 7:30.

A school service will be conducted Wednesday at 1 p.m.

The children's confirmation class will meet Wednesday afternoon at 4:15 and Saturday morning at 9.

The congregation will conduct a Thanksgiving service Thursday morning at 9:30.

Community Service Of Thanksgiving At First Baptist

A service of Thanksgiving on the evening before our national holiday of Thanksgiving will be held Wednesday evening, Nov. 25, at 7:30 p.m. at the First Baptist Church, Sixth and Lamine Streets. This service has been arranged for the members of our community by the Sedalia-Pettis County Ministers' Association.

The preacher for this service will be the Rev. Marvin G. Albright, who last Sunday was installed as the pastor of the Immanuel United Church of Christ. The Rev. Mr. Albright, who has come to Sedalia after serving as a pastor in Texas and who is a graduate of Elmhurst College and Eden Theological Seminary in St. Louis, has selected as his sermon title "The Quality of Thanksgiving."

Special music at this service will be provided by the Smith-Cotton High School mixed chorus under the direction of Mrs. Carl G. Schrader. The chorus will sing the call to worship at the beginning of the service, entitled, "The Lord Is in His Holy Temple." For an offertory anthem the chorus will sing, "Give Me Your Tired, Your Poor," by Berlin.

The service will be conducted by the Rev. J. R. Wallace, who is the pastor of the First Baptist Church. Offerings of the people will be received by the Rev. George Sparling, pastor of the Wesley Methodist Church, who is president of the Sedalia-Pettis County Ministers' Association.

Bishop Loyd Adams To Speak at RLDS

Bishop Loyd R. Adams, from Warrensburg, will be a guest speaker at the 11 a.m. worship service Sunday at the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints. The theme for the morning service is, "Thanksgiving." Mrs. Charles Griggs will be the organist for the 11 a.m. service. Special music will be a song "Thanks Be To God," by the women's chorus.

The annual Thanksgiving dinner of the RLDS Church will be held Sunday at the noon hour, following the morning service, in the lower auditorium. This dinner is sponsored by the Church women.

Congregational business meeting for Sedalia will be held Sunday evening at 7:30.

Choir practice Monday at 7:30 p.m. Prayer service Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. The OTZ's business meeting at the church Tuesday, Dec. 1, at 7:30 p.m.

Charles Dickens died before completing his "Mystery of Edwin Drood," which makes its ending the great mystery story of modern times.

Stewardship, Topic At Broadway Baptist

Rev. George W. Poulos, pastor of Broadway Baptist Chapel, will speak Sunday morning on the subject, "Being Faithful in Stewardship." The church choir will sing, "For the Beauty of the Earth." The Koin-a-Meal banks which were distributed for the Thanksgiving offering for the Children's Home will be collected Sunday morning. Pledge cards have been mailed to all church members and are to be turned in Sunday morning, also.

At 2:30 Sunday afternoon the missions committee will meet.

Four men and five boys from Broadway will attend the association men and boys banquet Monday at 6:30 p.m. at the East Sedalia Baptist Church.

Choir practice will be conducted at 6:50 Wednesday evening, followed by the mid-week prayer service at 7:30. The pastor will deliver a Thanksgiving message at this time.

Dr. G. S. Odell To Speak On Thanksgiving

"Thanksgiving For All People" will be the subject of Dr. Garner S. Odell's sermon Sunday morning at 10:45 a.m. at the Broadway Presbyterian Church. Church School at 9:30 a.m.

The Junior High Fellowship will meet Sunday at 7 p.m. in fellowship hall. The guest speaker, Mrs. Ena Killingsworth, will speak on the topic of social work, particularly her work with children.

The monthly Senior High Sing-along will be held on the third floor of the educational building Sunday at 7 p.m.

The Night Group of Women's Association will hold its annual covered dish dinner and program Tuesday at 6:30 p.m. at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Heynen, 2017 Fairview Court.

There will be a special meeting of the stewardship committee Tuesday at 7:30 p.m.

Thanksgiving Service For Christ Scientists

Thanksgiving Day services will be held in First Church of Christ Scientist at 10:30 a.m. Visitors are welcome.

One feature of the service will be a period when individual Christian Scientists stand up voluntarily to express their thanks to God in their own words.

The sermon on "Thanksgiving" — as in all Christian Science services — will consist of readings from the Bible, and also from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy. There will also be hymns and a period of prayer.

The Golden text for the day is from Psalm 22. A related passage will also be read from Science and Health.

Thanksgiving Sunday Observed At Wesley

The Wesley Methodist Church will observe Sunday as Thanksgiving Sunday, with the sermon at both the 9 and 11 o'clock services being "Make Us Truly Thankful." The youth choir will have the first service and the chancel choir the second service, this schedule continuing through November and December. In January and February, the choirs will exchange schedules.

Sunday evening at 6 the Junior High MYF will meet at the church with the program series "Who Makes Up Your Mind" being the last of the series. Pam Mark, Becky Studer and John Lindstrom are the leaders. A membership contest will begin with this Sunday. Pam Mark and Jill Ulmer being the captains. The Senior High MYF will meet at 6:30 in the church parlor and will continue the series on "The Bible, Let's Use It." Linda Dimmick and Cindy Young are the leaders.

There is a light schedule of activities this week. The Wesley Fellowship Class will have a potluck dinner in the fellowship hall at 6:30 Tuesday evening. The Wesleyan Service Guild will meet Wednesday evening at 7:30 with Mrs. Henry Neimann, 1416 South Carr, with Mrs. Myra McFarland assisting. The church is urged to attend the Community Thanksgiving Services Wednesday evening at 7:30 at the First Baptist Church, the service being sponsored by the Sedalia-Pettis County Ministers Association.

Greeters at the door this Sunday are Mr. and Mrs. Lacy Belt at 9 and Mr. and Mrs. Otto Decker at 11.

A Tight Squeeze in 2064?

Even the skeptics have to admit that the human species is a rousing success in one way—the biological sense.

Human reproduction in the past few decades has been so phenomenal that the population of the world today constitutes about 4 per cent of all the human beings who ever lived.

According to the estimate of Annabelle Dismond of the Population Reference Bureau, 77 billion babies have been born since the advent of Homo sapiens about 600,000 years ago. (If, as some scientists now believe, man emerged a billion years before that, the number of babies would be 96 billion.)

Such numbers are too big to comprehend. Even dire predictions of billions more babies crowding into the world within the next century seem academic in Western countries, where living standards continue to rise.

If current trends continue—a 50 per cent increase every generation—there will be one billion Americans 100 years from now.

America, fortunately, still has many open spaces and wilderness areas where we can get away from our own kind—like the dwindling redwood forest of California, through which roadbuilders want to slash a super-highway.

Where we will all park our cars in order to enjoy the beauties of nature, no one has explained.

Recent studies of what happens to animal populations under conditions of overcrowding suggest that satisfying the world's demands for food and material resources may be the least of our children's worries.

Observations of jackrabbits in Minnesota and the famous lemmings of Norway, for example, show that animals react disastrously and irrationally to overcrowding.

The "acute stress syndrome" takes the form of liver disease and heart trouble, as well as such abnormal social behavior as killing the young and, in the lemmings, sudden mass migrations.

Contrary to popular belief, the lemmings die not from suicide but apparently from disease of the nervous system brought on by stress.

The frightening implication is that men are not so different from the other animals as we would like to believe. As one scientist has written, if we cannot control our numbers through the use of our human intellects, subhuman mechanisms are waiting to do it for us.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Nikita Considered Bombing China

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — It won't be admitted either in the Kremlin or in Washington, but both the United States and Russia considered dropping an A-bomb on Red China before she could develop her own atomic weapon.

Part of this story leaked out during the talks between the new Kremlin leaders and Premier Chou En-Lai when they told him that Khrushchev had seriously considered dropping a well aimed bomb on the Chinese nuclear complex. Khrushchev had been stopped from carrying out the plan; and the plan, the new leaders are reported to have said, was one reason they fired him.

Before President Kennedy died, he also ordered contingency plans drawn up for knocking out China's nuclear capability with a sudden haymaker. It was agreed that China could be put out of the A-bomb business with a single conventional bomb, a World War II blockbuster, dropped on the vital China diffusion plant.

President Johnson dusted off the plan and studied it after the first Chinese nuclear test over the Takla Makan. However, he decided against alienating world opinion by such aggressive action. He also figured such an attack would bring the Chinese hordes swarming into southeast Asia in retaliation.

But in both the Kremlin and the White House, the plans to denuclearize Red China have been put upon the shelf, not thrown into the wastebasket.

For when and if the Chinese Communists have accumulated a nest full of A-bombs, they will be a threat not merely to world peace but to world survival.

In the first place, they have repeatedly called for war to advance the Communist cause. Their chief difference with Russia is over co-existence. Upon the ashes of a nuclear holocaust, they have said, they would build a new world order.

China Is Not Vulnerable
Behind their strategy is the fact that China is not vulnerable to nuclear retaliation. The destruction of China's few pathetic military and industrial targets would not seriously cripple her strength, which is based upon her tremendous manpower.

Thus when China develops an atomic arsenal she could strike a mortal blow against America's industrial centers, knowing we could not inflict comparative damage upon China in return.

This has led some Air Force generals to urge that we build cobalt bombs, which would contaminate great areas with radioactive death dust. A few cobalt bombs could wipe out the Chinese population, a grim prospect which no American president wants to initiate.

The few westerners who have had contact with Red Chinese leaders report they have an obsession to become a nuclear power.

"We will build the bomb if we have to go naked to do it," Foreign Minister Chen Yi boasted to French Ambassador Lucien Paye shortly before the Chinese indeed exploded their first bomb.

America's atomic experts, after studying all the reports of the Chinese test, are convinced that China can accumulate a dangerous atomic stockpile in two or three years. This, more than ever, emphasizes the ominous question: What should the United States do about it?

Barry's Ace-in-Hole
Barry Goldwater has an ace-in-the-hole in his bitter battle with the moderate Republicans. He is: George M. Humphrey, Eisenhower's secretary of the treasury.

It was Humphrey's backstage maneuverings which contributed most to Goldwater's victory at the San Francisco Cow Palace. For if the bluff Cleveland mining mogul had not persuaded Gen. Eisenhower to pull the rug out from under Gov. William Scranton of Pennsylvania, the moderates probably would have defeated Goldwater.

Ike had originally persuaded Scranton to enter the race. But when Humphrey got on the telephone to the Eisenhower farm, Ike not only backed away, but later yielded to Humphrey and made some statements supporting Goldwater.

Today the GOP moderates, ranging from New York's vocal Sen. Jack Javits to Idaho's Gov. Bob Smylie, are demanding that the Goldwater extremists be kicked out of the Republican national committee. But Goldwater has appealed to Humphrey once again, and the powerful Ohio tycoon has promised to help stem the revolt.

Humphrey not only has the obedient ear of ex-President Eisenhower but can also line up an impressive list of Goldwater campaign angels.

Merry-Go-Round

The name "Barry Goldwater" has been removed from his office door in the Senate office building. There's no comment as to whether Goldwater, who will continue as senator from Arizona until January, ordered the sign removed, or whether it was stolen by a souvenir hunter. . . . It looks as if the steel industry is listening to the persuasive arguments of LBJ and will not increase the price of steel at this time. . . . Republican moderates are demanding the firing of Goldwater's No. 1 speech writer, Karl Hess. He's the man who wrote the San Francisco speech on extremism. . . . Hubert Humphrey wants American universities to organize student groups to help out in the war on poverty. Harvard and Columbia have already joined the drive to help prevent juvenile delinquency, while Swarthmore is helping educate Negro dropouts. The new vice president wants to extend this help program to many colleges.

The Isthmus of Tehuantepec forms the narrowest part of Mexico.

The Cape Jasmine (the florists' gardenia) is a native of China.

New Balance of Power

The World Today

Congress 'Receptive' to Veep Home

By J. W. DAVIS

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Once again there is talk of the government providing an official residence for the vice president, just as it provides the White House for the President.

This time the vice-presidential mansion talk may become more than just talk. Some interested people are about to come up with recommendations on a specific house.

The final decision will be up to Congress. But Congress, which has turned down some interesting propositions in this century, may be more receptive this time.

President Johnson, with his plans for upgrading the vice presidency, will have an important part in deciding what's to be done.

Johnson hasn't announced for establishment of a vice presidential residence, but those backing the idea think he is with them.

For one thing, Johnson is reported to want to pass along to his incoming vice president, Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, some of the official entertainment duties required at the top in Washington.

Humphrey's own home here, a comparatively modest house in Chevy Chase, Md., would not begin to meet large entertainment needs.

The vice president-elect has said, moreover, that he doesn't want to leave his home, even though it has had to be "patched and fixed up" just to do for family living.

But he might take the stand Richard M. Nixon, vice president under President Dwight D. Eisenhower, took. Eisenhower said in his 1957 budget message to Congress that the government should provide the vice president with an official home.

Nixon said then he didn't want Congress to give him a home, but he would give unofficial support to providing an official residence for future vice presidents.

Right now, one of Washington's finest estates, which has been mentioned as a possible vice presidential residence, is vacant and may again be available.

This is Tregaron, which was the home of the late Ambassador Joseph E. Davies. One of his heirs said Davies had hoped to have the estate used for the vice presidency, but never offered it formally because friends in the Senate said the cost of maintenance would be too high.

When Calvin Coolidge was vice president, he was offered the use of "Henderson's Castle," a fancifully decorated mansion on 16th Street. He turned it down as too costly to run.

There has been some talk of the vice president taking over Blair House, across Pennsylvania Avenue from the White House and now used to put up official guests of the nation.

A nuclear factor arises here: It might not be wise to locate the president and vice president so close together.

We the Women

Romance a Great Muffler

by Ruth Millett,
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

The author of a new book, "How to Marry Someone You Can Live With All of Your Life," Dr. Leland Glover says many people invest more time and effort deciding which college to attend, which automobile to buy, or where to spend their annual vacation than in choosing the best marital partner for life. He's right.

The trouble of course is in settling on a marriage partner, young people tend to ignore warning signals that suggest they may not, after all, have been "meant for each other."

The young man who enjoys making his fiancée jealous isn't likely to give up the sport after marriage, but the girl may ignore the warning signal, telling herself that once she gets him to the altar he will be all hers.

— The girl who lies to a young man before marriage is likely to go on lying whenever it suits her convenience — which should be taken as a warning signal by the young man, but often isn't.

— A young couple who can't stand each other's parents may say, "We're marrying each other, not each other's families!" — and head blithely into an overwhelming number of in-law problems.

Abnormal jealousy is often regarded as a proof of love during courtship — but it doesn't seem that way after marriage.

Young couples often dismiss a distinct warning signal that life together isn't going to work out too well with the romantic notion that marriage itself will change everything. But it won't for long — and then, too late, husband or wife looks at the other and thinks, "I never should have married him — or her."

Polly's Pointers

Other Use for Headband

By Polly Cramer
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Many of the pointers have become habits with our family. Here's one for you: Put a headband around your neck BEFORE rolling up your hair on the large rollers. When set, pull the headband up around the bottom rollers at the neck, ears and forehead. Keeps the rollers from drooping. This is especially good for those of us with fine hair. — MRS. F. A. M.

DEAR POLLY — Threads from old nylon stockings are useful for mending many things. Pull out some of the threads in a discarded one and wind on a thread spool. Collect several shades and use the thread that matches best to mend other usable hose that might have small tears. This thread is also excellent for mending nylon, dacron and all kinds of knitwear. Try it on wool. The threads blend beautifully. — MRS. R. T.

GIRLS — This is a dilly. The nylon threads really did an invisible mending job on a tear in wool fabric. Reminded me of my grandmother using a long strand of hair for mending. Cut the top off the stocking and then start pulling threads from around the hose. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — This is NOT a joke. Those of you who want to "distress" furniture can do as professional cabinet makers do and bang the piece with tire chains.

Line silverware drawers with blotters to absorb the moisture from "quickie" drying. — MRS. H. R.

DEAR POLLY — We always seem to have a clothes hanger shortage. Often the hooks would break off of metal hangers which was very annoying until I came up with the idea of slipping the hanger over the hook of another hanger, thus providing space for the hanging of two garments such as a skirt and blouse that would be worn at the same time. One hook works fine for both hangers.

I worked as a secretary for years and found it most annoying to pull out the desk drawer every time I needed a paper clip. Our clips came in small boxes of 100 each so I removed the lid from a new box, rolled plastic gummed tape around my fingers, put the tape on the bottom of the box and placed it on the table beside my typewriter. Each time I needed a clip it was at my fingertips. The tape held the box in place. — MRS. L. E. H.

DEAR POLLY — If you like to wear your pearls or other beads under a dress or sweater collar and find the string too short, take a sweater guard and slip to both ends of the necklace. — M. D.

THE DOCTOR SAYS

Heart Pain Treatment:
It's Mostly PreventionBy Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Association

The treatment of angina pectoris is mostly a matter of prevention — avoiding causes and taking drugs that will keep the coronary arteries open.

Surgical measures should be used only as a last resort. They are often disappointing. The simplest of these is the old-fashioned procedure of drawing off a half pint of blood. This is of value only if it can be shown that the victim's blood is abnormally thick. In such persons the relief may last for several months.

Another procedure that is not limited to persons with thickened blood is to open the sac that encloses the heart and dust sterile talcum powder on the outer surface of the heart. This sets up a foreign body reaction and stimulates the production of new blood vessels in the all of the heart. This operation works better in theory than in practice.

Pursuing this approach even further, Dr. Vineburg of McGill University, Montreal, peels away the outer covering of the heart itself and implants a thin sheet of sponge. He then sews the outer heart membrane together again. His results have been much better than those following the use of talcum powder.

Q — What causes tinea versicolor and what treatment is recommended?

A — Tinea versicolor, sometimes referred to as liver spots, is a mild skin infection caused by a fungus. It consists of light brown patches that do not itch and are not raised above the level of the normal skin. Most persons with this condition ignore it, especially if it is on a part of the body that is normally covered. If treatment is desired, Pragma ointment or a lotion containing sulfur and resorcinol may be used.

Q — The doctor says my sister has Addison's disease. Is this serious?

A — In Addison's disease the function of the adrenal glands is greatly reduced due to advanced age or destruction of the gland tissue by tuberculosis or a tumor. The disease is characterized by slowly progressive weakness, loss of appetite, loss of weight, abnormally low blood pressure and a generalized brown pigmentation of the skin.

Until the adrenal cortical hormones became available in recent years the disease was always fatal. But these drugs replace the secretions of the failing gland, thus resembling insulin for diabetics. They may therefore be considered truly lifesaving.

The Mature Parent

Decadence Can Be 'Fun'

By Mrs. Muriel Lawrence
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

"The 'fun' ethic is the root of the adolescent problem at home and in school," I was recently told by Fred M. Hechinger, New York Times education editor and author of the widely discussed book "Teen-age Tyranny."

"The notion that all struggle should be removed from children's experience must be the first to go if we are to get them back on the track."

I agree with him. But remove the "fun" fraud from children's lives? How can we? Don't we live by it ourselves?

Certainly, many teen-agers indulge in precocious sexual activity. But what about their elders who "buy now and pay later" for the fun they want—the vacations, cruises, transistor radios? Isn't this the land of the credit card — the deferred bill? Who among us grownups is willing to postpone gratification until we've paid for it?

Sure, this is the country where teachers teach children that work is ordeal by saying, "O.K., you've had your fun now. Let's get back to work." But isn't this also the country of the time clock, the coffee break? Do we parents go to work with joy in the opportunity to use our energies productively? Or do we have to be hounded to it? Given our playtimes?

Unquestionably, schools have created a whole philosophy to spare children dull drill in phonetic preparation for reading. But how about our devotion to "labor-saving" devices? Who among us personally strains baby's vegetables? Aren't our gadgets here to spare us dullness, too? What about our washing machines, the buttons that spare us the exertion of getting up and turning the television dial?

Undoubtedly the teen-ager dares not differ himself from his "crowd," dares not wear clothes or serve snacks other teen-agers don't wear or serve. But don't our child guidance "experts" tell us to get the support of other parents before we rule against school night parties?

What parent among us dares stand up for his own convictions without HIS "crowd" behind him?

It will take a powerful lot of uprooting to uproot the "fun" ethic from the lives of Americans. I wonder what the Founding Fathers would think of the "fun" ethic in operation. It bears little resemblance, I'm afraid, to the "pursuit of happiness" they had in mind on July 4, 1776.

Time Change For Evening At First Baptist

The Training Union will meet at 6 p.m. Sunday evening followed by the evening worship hour at 7. This new meeting time is an earlier schedule than has been regularly announced and if the congregation likes this hour it will be continued throughout the winter.

The Harmony Association's annual banquet for men and boys will take place in the East Sedalia Baptist church at 6:30 Monday evening.

The Ministerial Alliance of the city has decided this year to meet with the First Baptist Church, so the congregation will be host to the citizens of our community who come Wednesday evening at 7:30 for the "giving of thanks."

The Rev. J. R. Wallace, pastor, has chosen as his Sunday morning sermon topic, "Blessings Over Looked." The choir, under the direction of Raymond G. Hall, minister of music and education, will present as the choral worship, "King All Glorious." Mr. Hall will sing "Thanks to God" as the offertory.

For the evening worship service Rev. Wallace will use as the theme of his message, "Cross Bearing." A quartet will sing as the offertory, "Soldiers of Christ, Arise." The choir will offer, "Rejoice, the Lord Is King" as the choral worship.

The Sunday School meets at 9:30 a.m. The church choir will rehearse at 4:45 Sunday instead of the regular Wednesday evening time. The deacons will meet immediately after the evening service.

The graded choirs, beginner music activity, primary, "Carol" and "Singing Lads" meet Tuesday at 4 p.m.

On Wednesday evening the Auxiliaries meet at 6:45. The "Preparing to Teach" class will meet at 6:45 this week due to the 7:30 time of the city wide Thanksgiving service which is being held at our church this year.

Memorial Observance Sunday at Immanuel

"Preparing for the Unexpected" will be Rev. M. Albright's theme Sunday as the members of Immanuel United Church of Christ observe the traditional Memorial observance. Memorials purchased during the past year will be dedicated to the

Predict Record Turnout

Missouri-Kansas Victor Might Attract Bowl Offer

COLUMBIA, Mo., Nov. 20.—(Special)—Missouri's traditional, and traumatic, football rivalry with Kansas unfolds for the 73rd time here Saturday, with a record turnout of more than 50,000 fans on hand to witness another possible nail-biter in this ancient series.

The game has been a sell-out for months. General admission tickets, now on sale, will be available at Memorial Stadium Saturday. Ticket Manager John Moore said. These tickets are $3 each.

Either Mizzou (5-3-1) or Kansas (6-3) can emerge from this border brawl with a victory that would put frosting on the cake—and might attract a bowl offer. Informal feelers already have been extended to both schools by Gator, Bluebonnet and Sun bowl officials.

Playing at home, ordinarily a boon, carries an ominous warning for Missouri this week. Never in six previous Tiger-Jayhawk grid vendettas has the home team, or the favored team, been a winner.

Meanwhile, the border rivals have been involved in more thrillers during the past ten years than a lucky turtle crossing the Los Angeles Freeway. Only once has the outcome been determined by more than a touchdown. That was K.U.'s 23-7 triumph here in 1960, later awarded to M.U. on a forfeit.

For Kansas, this finale has championship implications. A Jayhawk win here, coupled with Oklahoma's dispatch of Nebraska, would enable K.U. to share the Big Eight title with the Cornhuskers. Highest possible finish for Missouri is third place.

Mizzou's defenses must be rigged Saturday to contain the slippery Gale Sayers, hard-charging Mike Johnson and Ron Oelschlaeger, and the passing and generalship of Bob Skahan, the K.U. bonanza who's guided Jack Mitchell's club to five wins in six starts.

Sayers is tied with another all-American, Sooner Jim Grisham, for the conference rushing lead at 614 yards. Oelschlaeger ranks fifth with 420 yards. Skahan is probably the loop's sharpest passer, based on the cool lefty's completion record (54.8 per cent) and his low incidence of interceptions (1).

Improved Mizzou will be better equipped to stall the Hawk attack if defensive backs Johnny Roland and Vince Tobin can re-join the secondary this week. Chances are they will. Both sat out the O.U. game with knee injuries, and Oklahoma counted both touchdowns on uncontested scoring passes.

The Bengals' offensive backs, who bored O.U.'s tough interior for 83 yards in a late 20-play drive, will have Gary Lane, Earl Denny, Charlie Brown and Carl Reese—with Capt. Gus Otto on call for short yardage thrusts. Lane is again this year the apparent total offense king—with 1109 yards and a 5.5-yard average coming down the stretch.

K.U.'s statistical edge is found in the rushing and total offense departments. Missouri looks a bit stronger defensively. Both clubs own capable field-goal kickers—Bill Bates for M.U., and Jayhawk Gary Duff who also doubles at halfback on defense. Oddly, Bill Leistritz—whose field-goal conversions figured in each of the last two MU-KU decisions (3-3 in 1962, and 9-7 in 1963)—probably won't be called upon as a kicker this Saturday.

Leistritz is one of 14 Bengal seniors who'll be suiting up for the last time. Others are: Backs—Otto, Mike Jones, Tobin and Saussele; linemen—Bob Ritter and Bud Abell, ends; Jerry Crumpler and George Comfort, tackles; Tom Wyrostek, Bobby Brown and Paul Jenkins, guards; Joe Buerkle and Steve Jansen, centers.

Two other seniors—ends Mack Gilchrist and Bob Widenhofer—bypassed their final year of eligibility because of pre-season injuries.

Mizzou holds a 33-30 lead in the Kansas series, with 9 ties.

Crowd Honors Boyer As Figure of Year

ST. LOUIS (AP)—More than 800 persons honored third baseman Ken Boyer of the St. Louis Cardinals Thursday night as the St. Louis Sports Figure of 1964. Boyer, who drove in 119 runs for the world champion Cardinals, is a top candidate for Most Valuable Player in the National League.

Former Cardinals' star Stan Musial presented the award to Boyer at the 15th annual Elks sports celebrity night banquet.

KICKOFF: 1:30 P.M. (CST) at Memorial Stadium, Columbia; EXPECTED ATTENDANCE: 51,000; OFFENSIVE FORMATIONS: Kansas—unbalanced line right with slot left; Missouri—Multiple T.

SERIES RECORD: Missouri has won 33, Kansas 30, 9 have been ties. Neither team has won at home during the Devine-Mitchell era.

1964 Fishing Tournaments Successful

The 1964 Lake of the Ozarks Association fishing championships proved a big success this year. The annual fall fishing competition opened Oct. 1 and concluded Nov. 15, during which time several hundred fishermen produced their catches with the final titles being announced this week.

Paul Meier, Jefferson City, was the winner of the large mouth bass division with his eight pound, 12-ounce catch. The Bagnell Dam area was the fishing location.

Raymond Foust, Eldon, took the wall-eyed pike trophy with his seven-pound, 13-ounce catch made in the Bagnell Dam area. Ed Carrington, Gravois Mills, took first in the white bass class with a two-pound, five and a half ounce catch made in the Gravois Mills area.

Elmer Banman, Afton, Mo., won the crappie class with an Osage Beach area catch which tipped the scales at two-pounds, four ounces.

The 50-pound fish of J. W. Swift, Warsaw, caught in the Warsaw area won for him the trophy for the best in the cat-fish class.

The winners will receive beautiful trophies from the Chambers of Commerce in the areas where the fish were caught.

Calhoun Takes Sixth Straight Win Thursday

Calhoun took its sixth straight victory Thursday night when they defeated Concordia 43-41 in the College High Basketball Tournament at Warrensburg.

Calhoun took an early lead in the first quarter outscoring Concordia 14-11. They further increased their lead in the second stanza scoring and at the half they left the floor with the score 21-13.

Concordia rallied in the third period, outscoring Calhoun by four points. During the crucial fourth period of play Concordia again outscored Calhoun in the stanza but failed to catch up with the costly first and second quarter lead built up by Calhoun.

Heater was the big gun for Calhoun scoring 15 points. He was ably assisted by Miller and Parks who hit 10 points each. Neirman led the Concordia individual scoring with 11 points and Droegge pushed 10 points through the hoop.

The Calhoun team is coached by Coach John Parker and is scheduled to meet Order in the tourney Friday night at 8 p.m.

Score by quarters:
Calhoun 14 7 9 13-43
Concordia 11 2 13 15-41

Kansas State Assured Of Good Record

MANHATTAN, Kan. (AP)—Kansas State is already assured of its best league record since 1958, heading into Saturday's game with fourth-place Oklahoma State here. But Doug Weaver's club isn't satisfied.

K-State hasn't won three league games since 1955, when it tied for third at 3-3. This was before Oklahoma State entered the league.

The Wildcats, now 2-4 in conference play, could finish in a fifth place tie by upsetting OSU, providing OSU loses to Oklahoma Nov. 28.

Oklahoma State can't afford a letdown, following its maximum effort at Nebraska. With a 3-2 record, Phil Cutchin's club has first division aspirations. The Cowboys need a victory over K-State to finish fourth.

Weaver and his players last Saturday celebrated K-State's first conference victory at home since 1959, before Weaver took over as coach. The Wildcats nipped Iowa State 7-6, surviving a wild finish in which Iowa State had a T.D. pass nullified and missed a field goal, all in the final minute.

The two teams didn't meet last year because of the Presidential assassination and K-State finished seventh at 1-5 compared to OSU's 0-6. The Cowboys were irked at missing a chance to tie for seventh.

Oklahoma State has run off 11 straight victories in the series which dates back to 1908, but holds only a 12-6 lead. K-State's last victory was in 1936.

K-State's defense should be able to match O.U.'s but the Wildcats will have to develop more offense to pull this one out.

Oklahoma Baptist Takes Drury Team

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (AP)—Oklahoma Baptist took command the second half and defeated Drury 61-60 in basketball Thursday night. Al Tucker paced the Baptists with 16 points. Jerry Byrd and Harland Hauck each got 18 for Drury.

CHICAGO — LaVerne Carter of St. Louis and Bill Hardwick, left, of San Mateo, Cal., the champion man and woman bowler in the U.S. join in with Canadian neighbor, Frank Boehm.

Baseball's Trade Period Opens Tonite

NEW YORK (AP)—Baseball's interleague trading period opens at midnight tonight with Dick Stuart, part of a major interleague deal two years ago, possibly on his way back to the National League.

Stuart's name is just one of many that have been suggested as principals in transactions that may take place between National and American League clubs in the next 25 days, or until midnight Dec. 15.

Trading is expected to reach its peak—if there is a peak—during the major league meeting in Houston starting Nov. 30. Only four deals were completed between the two leagues last year compared with 14 in 1962.

Although there is no way of telling whether there will be few or many trades this year, various reports indicate some big names may be involved.

Stuart, Boston's controversial slugger, is said to be headed for Philadelphia where the frustrated Phillies need a long-ball hitter for another shot at the NL pennant. In return, the Phillies reportedly will give up a pitcher, either right-hander Art Mahaffey or left-hander Dennis Bennett.

Stuart went to the Red Sox from Pittsburgh in a four-player trade in 1962. After a poor season with the Pirates, the big first baseman hit 42 home runs and drove in 118 runs with Boston, earning the Comeback of the Year award.

This past season he dipped slightly, slamming 33 homers and driving in 114 runs. Mahaffey and Bennett both were disappointments with the Phillies. Mahaffey compiling a 12-9 record and Bennett a 12-14 mark.

Seven Deer Killed In State Park Area

Deer hunters reduced considerably in number as bad weather moved into the area around the Knob Noster State Park. Hunters took six bucks and one doe on the last day of the season.

No accidents occurred Thursday in the area and no accidents were recorded during the entire season in the area. One arrest was made Friday for hunting in the Knob Noster State Park proper.

According to reports the total number of deer killed for the 1964 season was 117 composed of 70 bucks and 47 does. During the 1963 season 154 deer were killed.

Record Deer Kill

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP)—Deer hunters killed a record 20,605 whitetails during the seven-day season in Missouri which ended Thursday evening, the state Conservation Commission reported.

The previous high was 17,781 in 1960. Still to be reported are the deer kill in 20 counties where only buck deer were legal, and deer killed by farmers who hunt on their own property without a permit.

The archery season continues until Dec. 15. Bow hunters so far have bagged 267 deer.

Seven Teams Considered For Bowl Play

HOUSTON (AP)—Seven teams including Kansas and Missouri, are under consideration for the Bluebonnet Bowl football game, to be played Dec. 19.

Selection of teams for the post season game will be announced Sunday, Lou Hassell said. He is chairman of the selection committee.

Other teams Hassell said he is negotiating with are Tulsa, Florida, Florida State, Texas Tech and Mississippi.

Hassell said he will be on the telephone at Houston Saturday rather than being an on-the-spot witness at any of this week's games.

Kansas plays at Missouri, Tulsa at Toledo, Florida meets Florida State and Texas Tech plays Arkansas. Mississippi has an open date before closing out with Mississippi State Dec. 5.

The Bluebonnet Bowl game will be played in Rice University stadium, which has a capacity of 70,000.

Evangel Cagers Win

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (AP)—Evangel led from the start and beat Missouri Valley 86-84 in basketball Thursday night. Ron Waggoner of Evangel was high scorer with 23 points.

Wolverines Try Saturday For Rose Bowl Appearance

By The ASSOCIATED PRESS

Now that Michigan's head cheerleader has warmed up, the Wolverines will try Saturday for their first Rose Bowl appearance in 14 years.

Michigan, No. 6 in the nation, plays seventh-ranked Ohio State for the Big Ten championship and the trip to Pasadena, Calif. The game, considered a toss-up, is one of the highlights of college football's last big weekend which pairs many traditional rivals.

The weekend gets under way tonight when North Carolina State meets Wake Forest. A victory would give State the Atlantic Coast Conference title. Other major games pit Vanderbilt against Miami of Florida and New Mexico at Hawaii.

Michigan's rooters started getting their steam up Thursday night at a campus pep rally. University President Harlan Hatcher led some 4,000 students in cheers and noted that the students could travel to the Rose Bowl without worrying about final examinations because the school's first trimester ends before Jan. 1.

The Wolverines, 5-1 in the conference and 7-1 over-all, last were in the Rose Bowl following the 1950 season. The situation then was similar to the present.

Michigan went into its final game with Ohio State needing a victory to beat out the Buckeyes for the title. The Wolverines won 9-3 in a bitter snowstorm.

CHINO, CALIF. — This pastoral scene, about halfway between Los Angeles and San Bernardino, some 50 miles from downtown LA, shows the extremes in Sunny Southern California's weather, and on close inspection, one of the hazards.

The sheep grazing in the comparatively warm low 60 degree temperatures here are not bothered like people by the smog about to move into the area. As soon as high winds from the last couple of days abated, the smog (a gray layer seen just under the mountains) moved back. (UPI Telephoto)

Time Heals Wounds

Kennedys On The Go Again Year After Dallas Tragedy

EDITOR'S NOTE — A year after Dallas, the Kennedys are on the go again. After a period of indecision, Robert chose politics and scored a victory on his first try. Edward is coming back after critical plane-crash injuries, and Jacqueline Kennedy is making a new life. None forget Dallas, but a year has brought changes.

By JULES LOH

NEW YORK (AP) — Time is said to heal all wounds, but one year isn't much time to heal the wound the Kennedy family suffered last Nov. 22.

In the days following the assassination, Robert F. Kennedy reflected the family's grief. Always laconic, he became almost curt; always detached, he became sullen. Finally he was able to say "Sorrow is a form of self pity, and we have to go on." He seemed to be speaking for the entire family.

A year after that day in Dallas, it is clear that the characteristic optimism of the Kennedys has survived. The family still is one of drive and accomplishment.

When Robert was elected senator from New York and Edward M. re-elected in Massachusetts to the seat once held by his late brother, it marked the first time in history three brothers had become senators.

Last June 20, the day after the plane crash in which Edward was critically injured, Robert contemplated the family responsibilities facing him and announced that he would not be a candidate. But Edward made swift progress and he changed his mind.

With both Robert and Edward fit and eager for public life, speculation bobs up about the future for both of them.

As senator from a key state Robert, 39 today, plainly is in a good spot to try for higher office, even the presidency. Edward, at 32, has even more time on his side.

Election night was one for the Kennedy family to savor.

Joseph P. Kennedy, 76, patriarch of the clan, flew to New York to be with Robert that night, and at Edward's bedside in Boston were other Kennedys.

Once again the Kennedys could gather in triumph, as so many times they had gathered in affliction — when Joseph P. Kennedy suffered a stroke, when infant Patrick Kennedy died, when Edward was injured in the crash.

Edward now is out of his steel orthopedic frame, the device he called a rotisserie as it was used to turn him over. He sits up, and aides at the hospital have a betting pool on when he will walk — most guess between Dec. 11 and Dec. 20. Edward's only goal is to walk into the Senate when it convenes in January.

Almost four years after his near-fatal stroke, Joseph P. Kennedy is "somewhat better," according to Edward. He has been visiting Edward about once a week. Mrs. Joseph P. Kennedy also has been active; she was an enthusiastic campaigner for her son in the New York Senate race.

Duties have been heavy on Mrs. John F. Kennedy in the year since Dallas.

She accepted the task of guiding the outpouring of tribute to her husband. With the fervor of a devoted curator, she has been assembling her husband's historical legacy.

Besides helping raise funds for the Kennedy Memorial Library to be built at Cambridge, Mass., she has helped to plan, or at least acknowledge, memorials to John F. Kennedy throughout the United States and from Runnymede to Bolivia.

She has found, at last, some privacy in her apartment in New York and a house on Long Island's North Shore.

Mrs. Kennedy's formal period of mourning ends Sunday but Pamela Turnure, her secretary, expects there will be no sudden change in her life. Letters still arrive at the rate of 400 a day. "She values her time with her children," Caroline and John F. Jr., says Miss Turnure. "What she does will depend on how she feels later on."

Exhibition Of Religious Activities

By JERRY EDGERTON

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — The man in flowing white robes showed the hippopotamus tooth and the carved African masks to the crowd of children.

He explained the work of the White Fathers of Africa and the satisfactions of the religious life.

His booth, with a background of photographs and statistics boasting of six million Roman Catholic converts in Africa, was one of the most popular at a recent exhibition explaining the diverse vocations of Catholic religious orders.

The purpose was to show young people some of the activities of priests, nuns and brothers and spur their interest in joining the orders.

The show was sponsored by the local chapter of the Serra Club, an international group of Catholic laymen. The club sponsors similar displays in other cities, shows films and provides speakers.

The atmosphere at the Louisville show was that of a trade fair, and no one was doing any hard-sell recruiting. Some 54 orders from 12 states were represented. Each booth had pamphlets and leaflets to give out.

The emphasis seemed to be on demonstrating that the religious life is far from all somber and serious. Color slides at many booths showed brothers and students playing sports or having informal get-togethers. A popular feature was a hootenanny staged by nuns, brothers and seminarians which included a hand-clapping, sing-along rendition of "When the Saints Go Marching In."

The Our Lady of Grace Sis-

Safe Burglar Must Have Been Frustrated

SAN DIMAS, Calif. (AP) — Sheriff's deputies could only theorize about all the hard work

ters staged a show with marionettes dressed as nuns.

A majority of exhibits put emphasis on "the of serving God." Most of the men and women operating the booths have been assigned full time by their orders as "vocations officers." One such official was the Rev. Richard Wise of the Society of the Precious Blood. He explained he corresponds with any young men who inquire about entering the order, sends them literature and if they express continuing interest, eventually pays them a visit.

a burglar went in in order to remove a huge safe from the Rogers Auto Agency.

First, he had to break in the rear door.

Then he must have tinkered for hours trying to crack the safe.

Finally, perhaps with the help of an accomplice, he managed to drag the 750-pound safe from a front office to the rear door.

Somehow the massive load was hefted into a pickup truck. Today — maybe at this moment — the big door is swinging open and the thief is looking at the loot.

The safe, taken early Wednesday, contained $1.

Houses Burn While Firemen On Test Run

KUALA LUMPUR (AP) — Firemen at Kajang, 12 miles south of Kuala Lumpur, decided to take their truck and equipment on a test run Wednesday. They got back an hour later to find 24 houses in a nearby village had burned down.

Want Negotiations

Congoese To Stanleyville

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP) — Congoese troops led by white mercenaries launched their drive on rebel Stanleyville Thursday while the rebel regime there demanded negotiations on the fate of American medical missionary Paul Carlson and other foreigners in rebel territory.

The central government force moved out of Kindu, 250 miles south of Stanleyville, for what they hoped would be a quick seizure of the rebel capital.

Christmas Decorations Up Next Week

Yule Lights On Friday, Nov. 27 In Downtown Area

Christmas decorations will start going up in the downtown area next week, Bob Cain told members of the Downtown Association at a breakfast meeting Thursday morning at Bothwell Hotel. Yule lights will be turned on the Friday after Thanksgiving, as is the usual custom.

The Christmas parade will be held Saturday, Dec. 5.

Damon Hieronymus, chairman of the association, presided over the meeting, and called on Martin Goodrich, chairman for the first three months which included October, November and December, to tell of plans being made by his committee.

Goodrich told of the $500 gift certificate promotion, explaining the project to the members and their participation in it.

Hieronymus, in introducing the representatives from Hare and Hare, Richard Kellenberg and Douglas Smith, he stated that this company had been employed by the city to survey the needs of the city and make recommendations. These recommendations, he pointed out, are being made by experts in the field of city planning and it would be well to consider them, as well as recommendations they may make in the future.

Kellenberg showed slides of what Atchison, Kans., had done to completely change the appearance of the downtown area.

The downtown area of Sedalia, he stated, was certainly much better than Atchison had been.

Atchison had made its main street into a mall with fountains, flowers and trees, with not only new fronts on the buildings with a covered solid canopy over the sidewalks, but the backs of the buildings were remodeled, too, with the parking lots at the rear entrances to the stores as pleasing as the fronts.

This mall was about three blocks long with two through streets, he said.

The other slides were taken in San Francisco where the old buildings were dressed up in various ways.

Two drawings were on display. (Please Turn to Page 10 Col. 5)

LOSE THEIR JOBS — Indignant New York Naval Shipyard workers offer "thumbs down" to express their ire over Defense Secretary McNamara's order to shut down both Brooklyn Navy Yard and the Army Terminal Thursday.

Announce REA Loan

WASHINGTON (AP) — A $1,550,000 rural electrification administration loan to the Donipah Telephone Co., Doniphan, Mo., was announced Thursday.

The money is to be used to provide service for 2,022 new subscribers, build 272 miles of new line, rebuild 165 miles of existing line, help establish an exchange dial office at Grandin and to install mobile dial radio telephone equipment for 17 new subscribers.

Cuban Spies Fear Grows Among Exiles

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—A creepy feeling of Fidel Castro spies infiltrating the United States is growing in the Cuban exile colony. U.S. authorities say the situation is under control.

The head of an anti-Castro organization with an intelligence department of its own estimates more than 1 per cent of the Cuban refugees in this country are Communist agents. About 200,000 Cubans have come since Castro's 1959 takeover.

Another exile leader, whose office claims wide access to exile and Cuban underground information, estimated the number of Castro agents at 5,000, including Cubans and Americans.

An official of the State Department's Cuban affairs office here described such claims as without substantiation.

Miami district immigration director Robert Woytch said his men screen out spies by "one of the most efficient techniques yet devised."

"Our record is so tremendous that no cases have been brought to light," he said.

The Cuban who issued the estimate of 5,000 agents said: "Many have lived in the United States since before Castro, and are American citizens. They can cross back and forth into Mexico freely. The Cuban Embassy in Mexico is the hub of the spy network."

The exile produced a list of alleged Castro agents or "very suspicious persons."

Hearnes Selects Adjutant General

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Col. Laurence B. Adams, 49, of Jefferson City will be the new adjutant general heading Missouri's military forces under Gov. Warren E. Hearnes when the new administration takes office Jan. 11.

Adams will succeed Maj. Gen. A. D. Sheppard, who is retiring at the end of this year after more than 13 years of service.

Adams wife, Mrs. Cathryn W. Adams, is Hearnes' private secretary. There are five Adams children.

It was the incoming governor's second major appointment. Earlier, he named Brig. Gen. Glennon T. Moran, St. Louis, of the Missouri Air Guard, to be supervisor of liquor control.

New governors usually designate their choice for adjutant general early because he and his staff are in general charge of arrangements for the inauguration.

Retiring Gov. John M. Dalton is expected to make the formal appointment of Hearnes' choice as of Jan. 1 so the new adjutant general can take over immediately on Sheppard's retirement.

Earlier in the day Hearnes chose his campaign manager and Democratic state chairman Delton L. Houtchens, to be chief of staff for the honorary colonels.

The rank of the new adjutant general probably will be brigadier general at first. He could step up only one rank from colonel to brigadier to gain federal recognition although under Missouri law the governor could give him any state rank he chose.

Adams, who was in the southwest Pacific in World War II, is currently assistant director of Selective Service in Missouri and formerly was manpower director and deputy director for the Selective Service.

After the war he was organization and training officer with the adjutant general's office but returned to active duty with Selective Service at the outbreak of the Korean War.

He attended public school in Sikeston and was graduated in 1940 from Southeast Missouri State College at Cape Girardeau.

He started his military career as a private in Co. K, 140th Infantry of the Missouri National Guard in 1932 and became a second lieutenant in 1940, the rank he held when the unit was inducted into federal service at the outbreak of World War II.

Later he became company commander, battalion executive officer and battalion commander of the 1st Filipino Infantry Regiment in the Pacific.

He is a member of the Veterans of Foreign Wars and the American Legion.

Named Chief of Staff

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Delton L. Houtchens of Clinton, Democratic state chairman, was named chief of staff for Gov.-elect Warren E. Hearnes' honorary colonels Thursday.

Hearnes said the names of all the honorary colonels will be announced soon. They will form a guard of honor at inauguration ceremonies Jan. 11.

Houtchens managed Hearnes' primary campaign. He formerly served on the state Personnel Advisory (merit system) board and was majority floor leader of the House, a job Hearnes also held later.

Elected President

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Mrs. Winthrop Rockefeller of Morrilton, Ark., was elected president of the National Association for Mental Health Thursday.

Dr. Robert H. Felix, dean of St. Louis University's school of medicine, was named second vice president.

McNamara Ordered Reductions In Bases

Closing Actions To Be Finished By Mid-1966

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara ordered the shutdown of two naval shipyards, six bomber bases and the removal of 150 older intercontinental ballistic missiles which he said "have served their purpose."

The actions were among 95 consolidations, reductions and discontinuances of military bases which he discussed in broad outline Wednesday.

Most of the actions will be completed by mid-1966, and all but one by 1970.

When finished, McNamara said, the actions will produce $447 million in annual savings, and cut manpower by 63,401 "without in any way reducing military effectiveness."

Eighty of the bases and installations are in 33 states and the District of Columbia. The others are in Europe and the Western Hemisphere, but their identity was not disclosed pending discussions with the governments involved.

Although the Pentagon sought to keep a tight lid on details until McNamara's news conference, many of the bases affected were identified by congressmen, state governors and others ahead of time.

In addition to naval shipyards and bomber bases, McNamara's economy acts struck at Army and Air Force training bases, radar stations, arsenals, ordnance plants and a variety of other military activities which are considered surplus or obsolete.

The Portsmouth Naval Shipyard, Portsmouth, N.H., was ticketed for a gradual close-down over the next 10 years.

The New York Naval Shipyard in Brooklyn also was ordered closed within six to 18 months.

In addition, McNamara ordered a merger of the Mare Island and San Francisco naval shipyards in California under a single command, expected to save about $4.9 million a year in overhead.

The New York shipyard had 9,634 workers and Portsmouth 7,305 employees as of the end of October. Together, Mare Island and San Francisco had more than 16,000 workers on that date.

Over-all, McNamara estimated that $42.8 million will be saved each year as a result of the shipyard actions.

At the same time, it was disclosed that a special board which investigated all 11 naval shipyards had recommended a five-year modernization program for the remaining yards, and this could turn out to be expensive.

The six Strategic Air Command Bomber bases to be closed are Dow Air Force Base, Maine; Glasgow AFB, Montana; Amarillo AFB, Texas; (Please Turn to Page 10 Col. 5)

Prisoner Says He Is A Fugitive

ROME (AP) — The man found chained in a Cairo-bound United Arab Republic diplomatic mail trunk now says he is an Israeli fugitive forced to spy for Egypt, police reported Thursday.

Why he was being air-freighted to Cairo still was a mystery. Whatever his game, police said, it was one of life and death.

Among the possibilities authorities were trying to puzzle out were:

—He had demanded more money than his Rome U.A.R. Embassy contact agents thought he was worth.

—The Egyptians learned that Italian security police were watching him and hoped to get him back to Cairo before he could come under police questioning.

—They feared he was selling them out in a double game with Israeli intelligence.

Police said the man admitted he was Mordechai Ben Masud Louk, who left his wife and four children in a village near Tel Aviv and fled into the Egyptian-held Gaza Strip in 1961. He was said to have fled to avoid the draft. He told police the Egyptians jailed him for six months until he agreed to become their agent.

The police said he told them at first he was Moroccan-born Josef Dahan because he feared repercussions against his family in Israel.

In Tel Aviv, the usually reliable paper Haaretz said Louk would be put on trial if he returned to Israel, which the paper said he left illegally.

Haaretz said Louk was suspected of having made anti-Israeli broadcasts on Cairo radio's Hebrew language service.

Two Rome U.A.R. Embassy secretaries caught trying to smuggle Louk aboard a Cairo-bound plane Tuesday night were expelled from Italy.

After their return to Cairo, the Egyptian press carried its first accounts of the case, and called it an Israeli plot to smear the U.A.R.

The paper Al Akbar said a "Zionist gang" in Rome had somehow switched boxes at the airport, substituting the one containing the man for the original containing diplomatic mail.

Anniversary Of Death Of President

Rededication Is Urged Of Nation On Historic Date

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson asked the nation to observe the first anniversary of President John F. Kennedy's assassination with a rededication "to the pursuit of those ideals of human dignity in which he believed."

The anniversary falls on this coming Sunday and the religious note will predominate as the nation recalls that tragic Nov. 22. Across the land, special church services, some of them on an interfaith basis, will mark the young president's death.

President and Mrs. Johnson are to attend a memorial service in Austin, Tex.

Some members of the Kennedy family are expected to participate in a memorial Mass at a Washington Catholic church not yet designated. The widow, Mrs. John F. Kennedy, is expected to spend the day in seclusion with no public appearance planned.

From dawn to dusk, religious and lay groups from near and far will pause briefly at the grave in Arlington National Cemetery to place wreaths and conduct short prayer services.

Johnson read his anniversary proclamation Thursday in the White House Cabinet Room as he accepted a bronze bust of Kennedy. The bust was commissioned by the three military aides of the late president as a gift for Mrs. Kennedy. It is to be moved to the Kennedy Memorial Library at Cambridge, Mass., when that institution is completed.

Shortly before Johnson read his proclamation, the White House had announced that the hearing transcripts of the Warren Commission's inquiry into Kennedy's assassination will be made public Nov. 30.

There will be 26 volumes, weighing 54 pounds, and they will be sold, in complete sets only, by the Government Printing Office at a price of $76.

The transcript and accompanying exhibits will show the basis for the commission's announced conclusion that Kennedy was slain by Lee Harvey Oswald, acting alone, and that Oswald, in turn, was shot to death by Jack Ruby, also acting on his own.

Pope Actions During War Stirred Anew

HAMBURG, Germany (AP) — The controversy over Pope Pius XII's actions in World War II revived Thursday with reports in West Germany and Britain of Nazi documents alleging the pontiff sympathized with the Axis powers.

A high Vatican official said the documents were "clearly partisan because of their source. They are documents from only one of the interested parties."

The German news magazine Der Spiegel reported that Nazi foreign policy documents, soon to be published in book form, revealed that Pope Pius tried to persuade the United States and Britain to shift to Germany's side against the Soviet Union. Der Spiegel said the pontiff believed the Nazi army was the only defense against communism of Europe.

The magazine said the Nazi documents reported that the Pope sent an Italian architect, Enrico Pietro Galeazzi, to seek the help of Francis Cardinal Spellman in New York for his anti-Communist plan.

Cardinal Spellman, in Rome for the Vatican Ecumenical Council, was not immediately available for comment.

According to Der Spiegel, the Pope's plan called for Hitler's replacement by another leader, probably Heinrich Himmler.

The magazine said the documents also proved the charge, raised last year by West German playwright Rolf Hochhuth in the controversial play "The Deputy," that Pope Pius did

Hoover Blast At Warren And King

WASHINGTON (AP) — FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover has blasted the Warren Commission as "unfair and unjust" and called Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. "the most notorious liar in the country."

Hoover boiled over on these and other matters, including lenient "bleeding heart judges," in a lengthy interview Wednesday with a group of women reporters.

He angrily charged the Warren Commission with "a classic example of Monday morning quarterbacking" in discussing its report on the assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

The commission, headed by Chief Justice Earl Warren, has said the FBI failed to notify the Secret Service that the assassin, Lee Harvey Oswald, was in Dallas last Nov. 22, the day Kennedy was slain.

In New York City alone, Hoover complained, 7,000 persons would have to be taken out of circulation every time a president makes a public appearance if it were deemed necessary to remove "every individual who might threaten the safety of the president."

However, the FBI director

Calls King Liar

J. Edgar Hoover

said, his office is turning over to the Secret Service the names of 'thousands of beatniks, crackpots and kooks.'

Hoover appeared before the commission last May 14 and told newsmen after testifying the panel was doing "a very thorough job." He said it had "even gone beyond what a reasonable man would have expected" in accumulating evidence.

Shortly after the commission issued its report Sept. 27, Hoover was entwined in controversy. The Washington Evening Star published Oct. 2 a copyright (Please turn to Page 10, Col. 6)

King Brands Hoover Rap Irresponsible

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., Negro civil rights leader, branded today as irresponsible a charge by FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover that King lied about actions of federal agents in Albany, Ga.

A telegram to Hoover from King, who is in the Bahamas, was released here by his office. King wired Hoover he had questioned the FBI's effectiveness in racial incidents.

And in an accompanying statement, King said he would not engage in a public debate with the FBI chief.

Hoover said Wednesday that King was "the most notorious liar in the country." The FBI director said this was true because King had said FBI agents in Albany, Ga., failed to act on

Won't Debate

Martin Luther King

Negro complaints because the agents were Southerners.

In his telegram to Hoover, King denied he had attributed what he termed FBI ineffectiveness to the heritage of agents. King said in the accompanying brief statement:

"I cannot conceive of Mr. Hoover making a statement like this without being under extreme pressure. He has apparently faltered under the awesome burdens, complexities and responsibilities of his office. Therefore, I cannot engage in a public debate with him.

"I have nothing but sympathy for this man who has served his country so well."

King wired Hoover that the FBI director's statement was appalling and surprising.

"I have sincerely questioned the effectiveness of the Federal Bureau of Investigation in racial incidents particularly where bombings and brutalities against Negroes are at issue," his telegram said.

"But I have never attributed this merely to the presence of Southerners in the FBI. This is a part of the broader question of federal involvement in the protection of Negroes in the South and the seeming inability to gain convictions in even the most heinous crimes perpetrated against civil rights workers."

King said it was a fact that no arrests had been made in Albany despite what he called many brutalities against Negroes, nor in the church bombing of Sept. 15, 1963, in Birmingham, Ala., where four Negro girls were killed, nor the murder of three civil rights workers in Mississippi.

Girls Really Care for Them

Probably no one will ever prove—to half the population, at any rate—that women are just as good (if not better) drivers than men.

But statistics seem to cast doubt on another alleged characteristic of women—their fickleness. Oddly enough, this also has to do with automobiles.

According to a survey by, of all agencies, the Department of Agriculture, women are more loyal to their cars than men. They keep new cars for an average of seven years, used cars for almost five.

For men, the average figures are about six years for cars they buy new, less than four years for used cars.

Young men (between 25 and 39)

are the most inconstant in their affections, trading in new cars after an average of 5.4 years, used cars at 3.4 years. As the ages go up, so does length of ownership for both new and used cars. But only past the age of 60 does male vehicular faithfulness approach that of females.

Of course, cynics will immediately suggest that fickleness has nothing to do with it at all. Men usually have more money than women. They are more interested in cars to begin with. There is a certain emotion associated with stepping into a new set of wheels that women are just incapable of feeling. And so on.

Don't pay any attention to them, girls.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Mississippi In Racial Spotlight

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — The little band of white men who murdered three Civil Rights workers near Philadelphia, Miss., and bulldozed their bodies into a freshly made dam, probably did more to change the customs of Mississippi than any group of men in post-Civil War history.

They were aided, of course, by the nine bombers who destroyed churches and homes in McComb; and by other Kluxers and terrorists who burned more than thirty churches, killed nine people, shot 35 others, and arrested more than 1,000 Freedom Workers, including those at McComb for cooking in their own Freedom House.

All this has put Mississippi on the map more than at any other period in modern history. Without these bombings, murders, and arrests, Mississippi probably would have chugged complacently along, enjoying its charming antebellum society of mint juleps, cotton plantations, tenant farmers, and cotton mills; together with its influence in Washington exercised over the courts by Jim Eastland and his Senate Judiciary Committee; by Rep. Jamie Whitten's sway over money for the farm programs of America; and Rep. Bill Colmer's veto on funds for the schools of America.

But murder, violence, prison beatings, and local boycotts have now started a chain reaction which it will be difficult for the Mississippi moderates to stop.

Absentee Textile Lords

Already the Defense Department is looking over its defense contracts to see what it buys from Mississippi textile mills; and the economy wave, plus the pressure of Northern congressmen, is bound to force an examination of Mississippi military bases.

Finally, the big absentee mill-owners who moved their plants to Mississippi to take advantage of cheap, non-union labor are going to begin doing something about integration and job opportunities. Under the Civil Rights Act they are required by law to do it on June 30, but many will want to do it earlier.

Take the case of the Kayser-Roth Company, one of the biggest textile and hosiery manufacturers in the country, whose chairman is Abe Feinberg, close friend of Harry Truman and a trustee of the Truman Library. Feinberg has served as President of the Development Corporation for Israel, has been active in the Israel bond drives, and is President of the American Committee for the Weizman Institute in Israel.

Feinberg operates a mill in Centerville, Miss., and the last thing he wants is to have his mill lag behind the rest of the country when it comes to race problems.

Other absentee owners, active in civil events in the North, cannot afford to be in a position of condoning or aiding racial violence in the South.

Herbert Shuttleworth of the Mohasco Industries, which operates a carpet yarn and carpet factory at Greenville, has been a director of the Community Chest at Amsterdam, N. Y., a trustee of the Amsterdam City Hospital, and is active in St. Mary's Hospital. He too cannot afford to ignore conditions of violence and racial inequality in Mississippi.

Bill Miller's Felt

Then there is Lockport Felt, which pays Rep. Bill Miller, GOP candidate for vice president, a retainer of $7,500, and on which he serves as a director. Miller, author of an early Civil Rights Bill, likewise cannot afford to be connected with a branch plant at Starkville, Miss., which holds back against the integration laws.

The giant Burlington Mills, one of the biggest in the nation, makes overall denim at its plant in Stonewall, Miss., and its president, Charles Myers, Jr., is a director of Children's Home in Greensboro, N. C., and a Presbyterian elder. Naturally he too frowns on Mississippi racial imbalance and rioting.

Various other executives of Mississippi plants living in the North eventually will want to stand up and be counted against inhuman relations and a bad name for their local plants. Among them is Henry M. Bliss of Ludlow Mills, whose company operates a branch plant at Indianola, Miss., and whose wife is a member of the Boston Museum of Fine Arts and active in Massachusetts General and St. Vincent Hospitals. Austin Mason, president of Ludlow Mills, is active in Children's Hospital. There are two other influential executives who serve with Abe Feinberg in the far-flung Kayser-Roth textile empire. Chester Roth, its president, is a trustee of the Jewish Community Center in White Plains, N. Y., of the Federation of Jewish Charities, of the National Jewish Hospital in Denver, and the Jewish Memorial Hospital in New York; Alfred Philip Slaner, executive vice president, is a member of the Board of Education of Union Free School District 2, Scarsdale, N. Y.

None of these men are going to permit their Mississippi mills to be in violation of the law, and doubtless they will want to move soon to have their local managers use their potent influence against murder, bombing, and violence.

This is where the real power structure of Mississippi is. And these absentee textile lords, throwing their influence behind Mississippi moderates, can end Mississippi's police state even before Congress reconvenes.

OMAHA WORLD - HERALD: All That Glass Breaking. — Representative H. R. Gross, R-Iowa, observed recently that Dr. C. F. Hansen, superintendent of schools in the District of Columbia, had reported that last year's bill for replacing window panes broken by vandals comes to 300 thousand dollars.

One would think that the noise of all that glass breaking in the nation's capital would be overwhelming. But perhaps it was muffled by the rumble of oratory promoting American projects designed to terminate violence and bring about peace and quiet in a hundred far corners of the world.

Man, An Apt Imitator

It is said that science and technology have advanced mankind many centuries in this past century. Yet, have they?

Jet propulsion is new, but the squid has been jetting around the ocean by sucking in and expelling water for much longer than man has been doing it.

Radar, of a type, has been used by bats for centuries.

The hummingbird is a natural helicopter, going up or down, backward or forward, or just hovering on a blossom.

The scorpion's tail is a natural hypodermic needle. The caribou and snowshoe rabbit have built-in snowshoes. And abalones use suction cups to attach themselves to rock.

Science is man learning how to imitate the things he has seen around him since he came upon the earth.

Legislative Blueprints Drafted

By HARRY KELLY

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson is, or soon will be, poring over a batch of special reports he will use in charting the course of his own administration — and the nation — in the years ahead.

From them Johnson intends to draw up the blueprints for his legislative plans that he will hand to Congress in his State of the Union address in January. The reports are being drafted by almost a score of task forces he assigned weeks ago to such long-standing problems as education, transportation, the urban jumble, care for the elderly, the economy and others.

Many refer one way or another to his version of what he calls the "Great Society," a concept he first discussed publicly last May in a speech at the University of Michigan.

Abundance and liberty for all with an "end to poverty and racial injustice" is just the beginning and the places to start to build this "Great Society," he said, are "in our cities, in our countryside and in our classrooms."

Much of his stress was on the turmoil and problems of the growing, tangled cities — the slum, overcrowded schools, snarled traffic, housing — and he said "in the next 40 years we must rebuild the entire urban United States."

But the solutions, he said, would not come from a massive Washington project but required "new concepts of cooperation — a creative federalism — between the national capital and the leaders of local communities."

So far few details have leaked out about the task forces' progress. One group is reportedly weighing the pros and cons of various tax reduction plans. Another is said to be studying the possibility of hitching Social Security payments to ups and downs in the cost of living.

Much of such social legislation — for aid to education, medical care for the elderly through Social Security, urban affairs, for instance — have hit hard walls of opposition in the past.

Many Republicans and Democratic conservatives have stormed at the hazards of "big government and big spending."

But this time, Johnson has a running start. His programs stand to receive the warmest reception in Congress of any president's since Franklin D. Roosevelt's in the 1930s. Not only did Johnson win the presidency on his own with a landslide, he has a Congress where the Democrats have a top-heavy majority in the Senate and will rule the House with their biggest majority since the New Deal's high tide in 1936.

And one of the first battles for the new Congress after it convenes in January will be over medical care for the elderly. For years its passage has been blocked in the House.

But this time administration leaders think they'll get it through.

Czech Communists Re-elect Novotny

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia (AP) — The National Assembly today re-elected Communist party chief Antonin Novotny president of Czechoslovakia.

Some Western observers in Vienna interpreted the re-election of Novotny as a show of independence from Moscow because it did not follow the current Soviet pattern of separating the top party and government posts.

Novotny, 60, has held both top offices in Czechoslovakia since he was elected president in 1957. He was nominated for a five-year term by the party's Central Committee and the Communist-dominated National Front.

CTK, the official Czechoslovak news agency, said 294 of the 300 assembly members were present and all voted for Novotny. There was no opposing candidate.

A Communist party member for 43 years, Novotny is one of the few Stalinists still in power. He weathered opposition with the backing of Nikita Khrushchev, who was his close friend.

Give Thanksgiving Turkey Time To Thaw

By Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Association

Thanksgiving without turkey would be like a hot dog without mustard.

Unlike turkeys the Pilgrim wives cooked for Thanksgiving, most of those used this year will come wrapped in a plastic bag and frozen. A few words of caution may be in order. Do not thaw your turkey in warm water or by leaving it in the sink. Take it from the freezing compartment and put it in the refrigerator so that it can thaw slowly in its original wrapper. This will not happen overnight. A 20-pound turkey takes at least 48 hours to thaw.

When the thawing must be done in less time, place the turkey under cold running water while still in its plastic wrapper. Once thawed, do not attempt to refreeze all or any part of the bird. If instructions are printed on the package, read them and follow them carefully. Both the bird and the stuffing should be thoroughly cooked before serving and what is left over must be put back in the refrigerator promptly and not allowed to sit for several hours at room temperature.

These suggestions will help to preserve the texture and taste of the turkey and prevent attacks of food poisoning.

Q — When I was about 21 years old, I began to have blurred vision. An ophthalmologist found that I was developing keratoconus. What could have caused this?

A — Keratoconus is a non-inflammatory bulging out of the center of the cornea. It usually involves both eyes, begins in the early 20s and causes serious impairment of vision. Like glaucoma, it is due to an increase in the pressure inside the eyeball, but has the added factor of a weakness of the cornea. What causes the increased pressure or the weakness is not known. It usually starts in persons who are between 15 and 30. Properly fitted contact lenses usually give perfect vision and stop the progress of the disease.

Q — What is retinitis pigmentosa? Can it be cured or arrested?

A — Retinitis pigmentosa is a chronic degeneration of the retina characterized by deposits of dark pigment in this membrane. It is hereditary. The victim suffers from night-blindness and a progressive loss of vision at the outer margins of his visual fields. Some central vision is kept so that complete blindness is rare unless from some complication. Although many kinds of treatment have been tried, no worth-while treatment has yet been found.

Contaminants In Spaceship A Bug That Must Be Beaten

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Scientists are becoming increasingly concerned about a little-publicized problem that must be solved before groups of men can stay more than a few days in space.

The problem is what to do with the hundreds of contaminants from men and machinery that can pollute air in space ships.

In tests in tightly closed chambers on the ground these contaminants have caused painful skin rash, violent nausea and impaired mental performance. On long trips they could accumulate in amounts that would prove fatal.

Millions of dollars have been spent by industry and government agencies in an effort to identify and filter out these pollutants. The most ambitious project so far is a $1.5-million facility in the Aerospace Medical Research Laboratories at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base, Ohio, where four glass-walled domes have been erected to study men under simulated space cabin conditions.

No results have been released, but enough is known to show that the problem of foul air in space cabins is serious.

One of the top scientists in this research is Dr. Thomas B. Weber, formerly with the Aerospace Medical Center at Brooks Air Force Base, Tex., and now manager of advanced research for space engineering at Beckman Instruments, Inc., Fullerton, Calif.

Weber says all space-cabin simulation experiments so far have had to be called off within a few days because of accumulation of toxic elements in the closed atmospheres.

"This may be the reason Russia's recent three-man space flight, which was expected to last several days, ended after only 24 hours," Weber said in an interview. "Monitoring systems may have shown a buildup of contaminants and caused early cancellation."

"Unless an answer is found this is a definite threat to our own plans for a manned orbiting laboratory and it could delay the Apollo program to land men on the moon."

Working under Air Force contracts, Weber has devised instruments to collect and identify more than 400 contaminants given off by the human body and by space-cabin equipment.

So far he has found 20 that are potentially lethal, including highly explosive hydrogen, given off by water used in cooling systems; ozone, given off by electrical equipment, and ammonia, acetone and alcohol, found in breath, perspiration and body wastes.

"None of these occurs in dangerous amounts in a normal environment," Weber said, "but in a small cabin they build up to lethal concentrations in short periods of time."

Suitcase For Sewing Kit

Too Peaceful In British Honduras

(AP) — The trouble with this tiny British colony is that it's just too peaceful.

Independence is there for the asking, but no one seems in a hurry for it. This deprives the colony of international attention as an "emerging, underdeveloped country."

It has no Communist threat. This disqualifies it for U. S. aid. That, in sum, is how some British Hondurans see themselves.

"We're too well-behaved," says George Price, the premier. "We're not inviting Russia here to build bases and, instead of communism, we preach Christian democracy. So, everyone takes us for granted."

Price is a good-looking, smooth-talking bachelor of 45 with a huge following among the colony's women.

"If he were married he'd have no party," a critic said.

Since 1960 Price has bossed this Massachusetts-sized wedge of land jammed in between Guatemala and Mexico on the Caribbean coast.

Shipwrecked British seamen settled in what is now Belize, the capital.

A good, hard look at this city of 37,000 is enough to convince anyone of the long, hard pull ahead to make the colony a going concern.

This is a country of heavily wooded mountains in the south and tropical plain in the north with limited natural and human resources. There are less than 100,000 people on its 8,900 square miles.

Founded as a logging settlement 300 years ago, lumber is still one of its main industries. Seventy per cent of the population is of African ancestry. English is the official language, but about 20 per cent speak Spanish. The ancient Mayan language survives among 10 per cent.

The all-wood construction makes Belize particularly vulnerable to frequent hurricanes. The city was leveled in 1931 by a storm that left 3,000 dead. In 1961, Hurricane Hattie took 262 lives and caused damage estimated at about $30 million.

Every backyard has a giant wooden vat fed by long drainpipes attached to slanting tin roofs. This is what passes for a water system. Few homes have an interior water supply. It rains 70 inches a year. Sewage runs in open, concrete-lined canals.

"To speak of independence under these conditions is mockery," says Philip Goldson, 31, leader of the opposition National Independence party.

Calls For Government Role In Birth Control Campaign

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Margaret Sanger, founder of the birth-control movement, has little hope that the population explosion will be controlled.

"I just don't see how we can control the birth rate until we get the government to agree that this is something that should be taken seriously," said Mrs. Sanger in a recent interview.

"Other countries feel that if our country is against it, it must be bad," she continued. "Americans would be much more acceptable when they go abroad to work in this problem, if we could get our government to okay it under population control."

Mrs. Sanger, who once challenged President Dwight D. Eisenhower to debate whether birth control is a proper concern of government, advises her country to follow Japan's example.

"The first time I went to Japan, I didn't get anywhere," she said. "But when I went back after the war, I found that quite a movement had been building up. We could do well to copy the Japanese on this."

However, she is not so optimistic about finding a solution to India's population problem.

"The difficulty there is the language," she explained. "Even Mr. Nehru didn't speak all the languages of India." Mrs. Sanger said she is encouraged by what she sees as a change in the attitude of the Roman Catholic Church.

But what the birth-control movement still needs most of all is education, she said. "Education is needed mainly among the poor and illiterate. I began the movement really because of them."

When she began her crusade to make birth control a public issue and a private possibility back in 1912, the whole subject was taboo.

"I had to be very careful about the words I used," Mrs. Sanger recalled. "Even my father — an outspoken Irishman who brought me up to do my own thinking — said to me one day: 'Margaret, can't you find some other subject in the world to talk about besides the bedroom?'" And he whispered when he said "bedroom!"

Although she was jailed eight times for her efforts to spread information, Mrs. Sanger isn't bitter.

"Every time I was put in jail, it was a mistake," she explained. "It was by somebody who didn't know anything and thought I was advocating abortion. Actually, I was trying to get people to give up abortion and use contraceptives."

Mrs. Sanger founded the Planned Parenthood organization and was its international president until just a few years ago.

Drag-Ons Rebuild Old Car For Gift to Boys' Ranch

Promoting Road Safety, Good Will

By LARRY EMBRY

Members of the Drag-Ons Car Club are hard at work rebuilding a vehicle which will never see automotive competition, but they are getting as much satisfaction out of their project as if they were building a personal car for themselves.

Through several Sedalians the club learned of the need for a pickup truck by Tom Butterfield, the devoted young man who is establishing Butterfield Boys Ranch near Marshall.

"We voted it in pretty quick," said President Larry Rennison in reference to the club taking on the project.

This left them with the need for a truck they could afford to rework and it was made available when Walter McClure, who resides northeast of Sedalia, offered them a 1950 truck which needed reconditioning, but appeared ideal for the boys' plans.

McClure heard the club was looking for a truck, and since he had met no success in attempting to sell the vehicle, he turned it over to the club.

Butterfield at present has only a stationwagon available for transportation on the old Marshall Country Club property, which he has converted to a boys ranch. The truck is needed for various hauling chores around the ranch and will come in handy collecting items which have been donated to Butterfield. During the winter, the truck is needed to haul coal.

Drag-On members drove the vehicle into Sedalia and took it to the garage of Dick Schultz, 410 East Third, where the club holds its regular Monday night meetings. This was three weeks ago and the trucks parts are now scattered over the garage as members tackle various portions of the reconditioning job.

"We plan to have the truck finished by the Christmas parade and will present it to Mr. Butterfield then," said Rennison. "We're going to upholster it, overhaul the motor, put on better tires, maybe not new ones, but better ones, put a new floor in the bed and repaint it in the original color."

"Since we brought the truck in there has been somebody here working on it practically every night."

But the boys are getting some breaks on refurbishing the truck. Some parts have been donated, others are promised, a paint job is pledged and they hope a benefit dance they are sponsoring Saturday, Nov. 28, at Convention Hall will bring in enough proceeds to buy the balance of the necessary parts.

The car club dates back to 1956, has 19 members and at present is the only such club active in Sedalia. Its members are mostly in their late teens and early 20's because of their common driving interest. Ages range from 17 to 27.

While all the members enjoy the powerful hum of a well-tuned motor and many participate in drag competition, these are not the club's purposes as their by-laws point out:

"The purpose of the club shall be to promote road safety and courtesy on American highways, to show the public what the true word of Hot Rodder means. Also to show the public what good organized Hot Rod clubs can do."

This road safety theme is reiterated again and again in membership requirements.

Any member who incurs a moving traffic violation resulting in conviction or is involved in an accident, must report these occurrences to the first business meeting thereafter. Welching on this club charge means a fine of one-half his court fine and he must then stand trial before fellow clubmen at the next meeting.

A member who has an accident will have his case investigated by three members appointed by the president and they will report to the membership. After hearing this report the members vote on whether or not they think their fellow clubman should stand trial before them.

Charges signed by three or more members can also bring another member before the group for trial. The club expels members found guilty by two-thirds majority.

Members pay $2 for a membership and plaque and then 50 cents a week. They can also be fined for not attending meetings without just cause.

But all the club's measures are not all aimed toward coping with accidents after they occur. To prevent them, each member must have his automobile run through a club safety check every three months. The cars of new members also must pass this safety check.

Current officers of the club are: Larry Rennison, 1603 East 11th, president; Gary Hayden, 2033 East Seventh, vice president; Dennis Smethers, 708 East 13th, secretary; Dick Schultz, 410 East Third, treasurer; Gary Deuel, 164 South Summer, reporter; and Steve Bottcher, 1110 East 11th, sergeant-at-arms.

Girls Really Care for Them

Probably no one will ever prove—to half the population, at any rate—that women are just as good (if not better) drivers than men.

But statistics seem to cast doubt on another alleged characteristic of women—their fickleness. Oddly enough, this also has to do with automobiles.

According to a survey by, of all agencies, the Department of Agriculture, women are more loyal to their cars than men. They keep new cars for an average of seven years, used cars for almost five.

For men, the average figures are about six years for cars they buy new, less than four years for used cars.

Young men (between 25 and 39)

are the most inconstant in their affections, trading in new cars after an average of 5.4 years, used cars at 3.4 years. As the ages go up, so does length of ownership for both new and used cars. But only past the age of 60 does male vehicular faithfulness approach that of females.

Of course, cynics will immediately suggest that fickleness has nothing to do with it at all. Men usually have more money than women. They are more interested in cars to begin with. There is a certain emotion associated with stepping into a new set of wheels that women are just incapable of feeling. And so on.

Don't pay any attention to them, girls.

Mississippi In Racial Spotlight

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — The little band of white men who murdered three Civil Rights workers near Philadelphia, Miss., and bulldozed their bodies into a freshly made dam, probably did more to change the customs of Mississippi than any group of men in post-Civil War history.

They were aided, of course, by the nine bombers who destroyed churches and homes in McComb; and by other Kluxers and terrorists who burned more than thirty churches, killed nine people, shot 35 others, and arrested more than 1,000 Freedom Workers, including those at McComb for cooking in their own Freedom House.

All this has put Mississippi on the map more than at any other period in modern history. Without these bombings, murders, and arrests, Mississippi probably would have chugged complacently along, enjoying its charming antebellum society of mint juleps, cotton plantations, tenant farmers, and cotton mills; together with its influence in Washington exercised over the courts by Jim Eastland and his Senate Judiciary Committee; by Rep. Jamie Whitten's sway over money for the farm programs of America; and Rep. Bill Colmer's veto on funds for the schools of America.

But murder, violence, prison beatings, and local boycotts have now started a chain reaction which it will be difficult for the Mississippi moderates to stop.

Absentee Textile Lords

Already the Defense Department is looking over its defense contracts to see what it buys from Mississippi textile mills; and the economy wave, plus the pressure of Northern congressmen, is bound to force an examination of Mississippi military bases.

Finally, the big absentee mill-owners who moved their plants to Mississippi to take advantage of cheap, non-union labor are going to begin doing something about integration and job opportunities. Under the Civil Rights Act they are required by law to do it on June 30, but many will want to do it earlier.

Take the case of the Kayser-Roth Company, one of the biggest textile and hosiery manufacturers in the country, whose chairman is Abe Feinberg, close friend of Harry Truman and a trustee of the Truman Library. Feinberg has served as President of the Development Corporation for Israel, has been active in the Israel bond drives, and is President of the American Committee for the Weizman Institute in Israel.

Feinberg operates a mill in Centerville, Miss., and the last thing he wants is to have his mill lag behind the rest of the country when it comes to race problems.

years old, I began to have blurred vision. An ophthalmologist found that I was developing keratoconus. What could have caused this?

A — Keratoconus is a noninflammatory bulging out of the center of the cornea. It usually involves both eyes, begins in the early 20s and causes serious impairment of vision. Like glaucoma, it is due to an increase in the pressure inside the eyeball, but has the added factor of a weakness of the cornea. What causes the increased pressure or the weakness is not known. It usually starts in persons who are between 15 and 30. Properly fitted contact lenses usually give perfect vision and stop the progress of the disease.

Q — What is retinitis pigmentosa? Can it be cured or arrested?

A — Retinitis pigmentosa is a chronic degeneration of the retina characterized by deposits of dark pigment in this membrane. It is hereditary. The victim suffers from night-blindness and a progressive loss of vision at the outer margins of his visual fields. Some central vision is kept so that complete blindness is rare unless from some complication. Although many kinds of treatment have been tried, no worth-while treatment has yet been found.

Could Cause Death

Contaminants In Spaceship A Bug That Must Be Beaten

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Scientists are becoming increasingly concerned about a little-publicized problem that must be solved before groups of men can stay more than a few days in space.

The problem is what to do with the hundreds of contaminants from men and machinery that can pollute air in space ships.

In tests in tightly closed chambers on the ground these contaminants have caused painful skin rash, violent nausea and impaired mental performance. On long trips they could accumulate in amounts that would prove fatal.

Millions of dollars have been spent by industry and government agencies in an effort to identify and filter out these pollutants. The most ambitious project so far is a $1.5-million facility in the Aerospace Medical Research Laboratories at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base, Ohio, where four glass-walled domes have been erected to study men under simulated space cabin conditions.

No results have been released, but enough is known to show that the problem of foul air in space cabins is serious.

One of the top scientists in this research is Dr. Thomas B. Weber, formerly with the Aerospace Medical Center at Brooks Air Force Base, Tex., and now manager of advanced research for space engineering at Beckman Instruments, Inc., Fullerton, Calif.

Weber says all space-cabin simulation experiments so far have had to be called off within a few days because of accumulation of toxic elements in the closed atmospheres.

"This may be the reason Russia's recent three-man space flight, which was expected to last several days, ended after only 24 hours," Weber said in an interview. "Monitoring systems may have shown a buildup of contaminants and caused early cancellation."

"Unless an answer is found this is a definite threat to our own plans for a manned orbiting laboratory and it could delay the Apollo program to land men on the moon."

Working under Air Force contracts, Weber has devised instruments to collect and identify more than 400 contaminants given off by the human body and by space-cabin equipment.

So far he has found 20 that are potentially lethal, including highly explosive hydrogen, given off by water used in cooling systems; ozone, given off by electrical equipment, and ammonia, acetone and alcohol, found in breath, perspiration and body wastes.

"None of these occurs in dangerous amounts in a normal environment," Weber said, "but in a small cabin they build up to lethal concentrations in short periods of time."

Suitcase For Sewing Kit

By POLLY CRAMER

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

DEAR POLLY—These winter days I have been catching up on my mending and want to share some of the ideas that helped me with this work. An old suitcase is a handy, dustproof container for patching materials and mending supplies. Bring it out when there is a mending job and everything will be right at hand. Repacked and closed, it will store neatly in a closet or even under a bed if you are short of storage space.

If a dress belt rides up in the front, add a third belt loop at the center front waistline and run the belt through this with the free end covering the loop.

When sewing patches on the outside of a garment, start stitching at the middle of one side rather than at a corner. If the patch slips off the grain of the fabric, it can be easily smoothed into place and finished off.

One of my kitchen drawers holds scratch paper, kindergarten scissors, crayons and a coloring book for our young guests to use when they come visiting. Each child who colors a picture signs on it his name and age. Each time the youngsters return, they enjoy looking at their earlier art work and that of others who have used the book since they made an entry. Autographing the picture encourages pride in the work and discourages aimless scribbling. — MRS. M. C.

DEAR POLLY — I have a tiny Chihuahua and even though he is kept in the house, he often needs a bath. He got so cold when he was bathed, I put him in my hair dryer hood and he loves it. I also dry hose and gloves in the hair dryer hood. — M. E. G.

GIRLS — Some of our readers may not like the idea of putting the little dog in the dryer hood, so you might check with your veterinarian. However, I can vouch for its usefulness as a stocking and glove dryer. I speeded the process by putting a rubber band around the end of the hood that is supposed to go over one's head. However, you certainly would not close it up this way with a little dog inside. — POLLY

Justice Is Fined

PORTALES, N.M. (AP)—William Crume, 71, had to drive 24 miles Wednesday to appear before Justice of the Peace Eldon Whitton on a traffic charge of making an illegal left turn.

Crume told the court this was the first time he had been on the wrong side of the law in 51 years he's been driving. But Whitton fined him $17.50 anyway.

Drag-Ons Rebuild Old Car For Gift to Boys' Ranch

Promoting Road Safety, Good Will

By LARRY EMBRY

Members of the Drag-Ons Car Club are hard at work rebuilding a vehicle which will never see automotive competition, but they are getting as much satisfaction out of their project as if they were building a personal car for themselves. Through several Sedalians the club learned of the need for a pickup truck by Tom Butterfield, the devoted young man who is establishing Butterfield Boys Ranch near Marshall.

"We voted it in pretty quick," said President Larry Rennison in reference to the club taking on the project.

This left them with the need for a truck they could afford to rework and it was made available when Walter McClure, who resides northeast of Sedalia, offered them a 1950 truck which needed reconditioning, but appeared ideal for the boys' plans. McClure heard the club was looking for a truck, and since he had met no success in attempting to sell the vehicle, he turned it over to the club.

Butterfield at present has only a stationwagon available for transportation on the old Marshall Country Club property, which he has converted to a boys ranch. The truck is needed for various hauling chores around the ranch and will come in handy collecting items which have been donated to Butterfield. During the winter, the truck is needed to haul coal.

Drag-On members drove the vehicle into Sedalia and took it to the garage of Dick Schultz, 410 East Third, where the club holds its regular Monday night meetings. This was three weeks ago and the trucks parts are now scattered over the garage as members tackle various portions of the reconditioning job.

"We plan to have the truck finished by the Christmas parade and will present it to Mr. Butterfield then," said Rennison. "We're going to upholster it, overhaul the motor, put on better tires, maybe not new ones, but better ones, put a new floor in the bed and repaint it in the original color."

"Since we brought the truck in there has been somebody here working on it practically every night. But the boys are getting some breaks on refurbishing the truck. Some parts have been donated, others are promised, a paint job is pledged and they hope a benefit dance they are sponsoring Saturday, Nov. 28, at Convention Hall will bring in enough proceeds to buy the balance of the necessary parts."

The car club dates back to 1956, has 19 members and at present is the only such club active in Sedalia. Its members are mostly in their late teens and early 20's because of their common driving interest. Ages range from 17 to 27.

ATTENDANCE RECORDS—Secretary Dennis Smethers, (left), goes over club attendance records with Steve Bottcher, who is the sergeant-at-arms. Missing weekly meetings can mean a fine and skipping two in four weeks puts a membership in jeopardy. Smethers and Bottcher both wear club jackets. The attendance chart bears the Drag-Ons insignia, which is carried in the form of a cast aluminum license plate on the front of their cars.

While all the members enjoy the powerful hum of a well-tuned motor and many participate in drag competition, these are not the club's purposes as their by-laws point out:

"The purpose of the club shall be to promote road safety and courtesy on American highways, to show the public what good organized Hot Rod clubs can do."

This road safety theme is reiterated again and again in membership requirements. Any member who incurs a moving traffic violation resulting in conviction or is involved in an accident, must report these occurrences to the first business meeting thereafter. Welch on this club charge means a fine of one-half his court fine and he must then stand trial before fellow clubmen at the next meeting.

A member who has an accident will have his case investigated by three members appointed by the president and they will report to the membership. After hearing this report the members vote on whether or not they think their fellow clubman should stand trial before them.

Charges signed by three or more members can also bring another member before the group for trial. The club expels members found guilty by two-thirds majority.

Members pay $2 for a membership and plaque and then 50 cents a week. They can also be fined for not attending meetings without just cause.

But all the club's measures are not all aimed toward coping with accidents after they occur. To prevent them, each member must have his automobile run through a club safety check every three months. The cars of new members also must pass this safety check.

Current officers of the club are: Larry Rennison, 1603 East 11th, president; Gary Hayden, 2033 East Seventh, vice president; Dennis Smethers, 708 East 13th, secretary; Dick Schultz, 410 East Third, treasurer; Gary Deuel, 164 South Summer, reporter; and Steve Bottcher, 1111 East 11th, sergeant-at-arms.

Kaiser Aluminum Plans New Center

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP)—Kaiser Aluminum and Chemical Corp. said Thursday it will build a multi-million dollar research center at Pleasanton, 28 miles from its Oakland headquarters.

President T. J. Riley Jr. said the company will begin building late in 1965.

Ready said Kaiser Aluminum plans, over the next few years, to consolidate most of the company's present research activities at the Pleasanton center. The company's major research facilities at present include refractories research labs at Milpitas, Calif., and Mexico, Mo.

Family In Hospital

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Nine of the eleven members of the Donald Westenberg family were in the hospital Thursday.

Six children, ages 3 to 11, were in Normand Osteopathic Hospital in St. Louis County to have their tonsils removed. Dr. Maury Sosnoff had planned the mass movement for convenience to the mother.

However, Mrs. Westenberg entered the hospital Monday and gave birth to twin girls. That left only her husband and a son at home.

Too Peaceful In British Honduras

(AP) — The trouble with this tiny British colony is that it's just too peaceful.

Independence is there for the asking, but no one seems in a hurry for it. This deprives the colony of international attention as an "emerging, underdeveloped country."

It has no Communist threat. This disqualifies it for U. S. aid. That, in sum, is how some British Hondurans see themselves.

"We're too well-behaved," says George Price, the premier. "We're not inviting Russia here to build bases and, instead of communism, we preach Christian democracy. So, everyone takes us for granted."

Price is a good-looking, smooth-talking bachelor of 45 with a huge following among the colony's women.

"If he were married he'd have no party," a critic said.

Since 1960 Price has bossed this Massachusetts-sized wedge of land jammed in between Guatemala and Mexico on the Caribbean coast.

Shipwrecked British seamen settled in what is now Belize, the capital.

A good, hard look at this city of 37,000 is enough to convince anyone of the long, hard pull ahead to make the colony a going concern.

This is a country of heavily wooded mountains in the south and tropical plain in the north with limited natural and human resources. There are less than 100,000 people on its 8,900 square miles.

Founded as a logging settlement 300 years ago, lumber is still one of its main industries. Seventy per cent of the population is of African ancestry. English is the official language, but about 20 per cent speak Spanish. The ancient Mayan language survives among 10 per cent.

The all-wood construction makes Belize particularly vulnerable to frequent hurricanes. The city was leveled in 1931 by a storm that left 3,000 dead. In 1961, Hurricane Hattie took 282 lives and caused damage estimated at about $30 million.

Every backyard has a giant wooden vat fed by long drainpipes attached to slanting tin roofs. This is what passes for a water system. Few homes have an interior water supply. It rains 70 inches a year. Sewage runs in open, concrete-lined canals.

"To speak of independence under these conditions is mockery," says Philip Goldson, 31, leader of the opposition National Independence party.

den, 2033 East Seventh; Dick Schultz, 410 East Third; and Donald Williams, Crestview Court. Work on the vehicle is going on in Schultz's garage where club meetings are held.

Calls For Government Role In Birth Control Campaign

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Margaret Sanger, founder of the birth-control movement, has little hope that the population explosion will be controlled.

"I just don't see how we can control the birth rate until we get the government to agree that this is something that should be taken seriously," said Mrs. Sanger in a recent interview.

"Other countries feel that if our country is against it, it must be bad," she continued. "Americans would be much more acceptable when they go abroad to work in this problem. If we could get our government to okay it under population control."

Mrs. Sanger, who once challenged President Dwight D. Eisenhower to debate whether birth control is a proper concern of government, advises her country to follow Japan's example.

"The first time I went to Japan, I didn't get anywhere," she said. "But when I went back after the war, I found that quite a movement had been building up. We could do well to copy the Japanese on this."

However, she is not so optimistic about finding a solution to India's population problem. "The difficulty there is the language," she explained. "Even Mr. Nehru didn't speak all the languages of India."

Mrs. Sanger said she is encouraged by what she sees as a change in the attitude of the Roman Catholic Church.

But what the birth-control movement still needs most of all is education, she said. "Education is needed mainly among the poor and illiterate. I began the movement really because of them."

When she began her crusade to make birth control a public issue and a private possibility back in 1912, the whole subject was taboo.

"I had to be very careful about the words I used," Mrs. Sanger recalled. "Even my father — an outspoken Irishman who brought me up to do my own thinking — said to me one day: 'Margaret, can't you find some other subject in the world to talk about besides the bedroom?' And he whispered when he said 'bedroom'!"

Although she was jailed eight times for her efforts to spread information, Mrs. Sanger isn't bitter.

"Every time I was put in jail, it was a mistake," she explained. "It was by somebody who didn't know anything and thought I was advocating abortion. Actually, I was trying to get people to give up abortion and use contraceptives."

Mrs. Sanger founded the Planned Parenthood organization and was its international president until just a few years ago.

OBITUARIES

Martha Walkenhorst
(New Haven, Mo.) Funeral Services

Word has been received in Sedalia of the death of Mrs. Martha Sievers Walkenhorst, New Haven, Mo. She had been in ill health for over a year.

She was born, Oct. 5, 1890, in New Haven, daughter of the late H. C. and Caroline Haase Sievers.

Surviving are a son, Harold; two daughters, Mrs. Elda Scheer and Mrs. Wilma Oberdick, all of the New Haven area; two sisters, Mrs. Clara Mettenberg, 616 West Sixth; Mrs. Anna Pott, New Haven; six brothers, Emil Sievers, 600 West Broadway; Carl Sievers, 1704 East 12th; Julius Sievers, Malta Bend; Fred Sievers, Concordia; Arthur Sievers, Kansas City; and William Sievers, Bonne Terre.

She was preceded in death by her husband, Otto Walkenhorst, in 1956.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Saturday at the Port Hudson Lutheran Church, New Haven.

Burial will be in the church cemetery.

Official
Evades His Pursuers

LAUREL, Miss. (AP) — A labor union president said Thursday unknown persons seized Wednesday night to seize a union official who was kidnapped at gunpoint and whipped by masked men two nights ago.

The union said the official evaded his pursuers in the second incident.

The union in a paid advertisement in the Laurel Leader-Call denounced the Ku Klux Klan, told union members to take up arms, and proclaimed any effort to impede their travel on public roads would be "met by death."

Otis Matthews, financial secretary and assistant business agent of the International Woodworkers of America, AFL-CIO, told officers two carloads of hooded men blocked a road Monday night, abducted him at gunpoint, tied his hands, ripped off his pants and beat him severely with a heavy strap while he was lying face down on the ground. During the beating, he related, the attackers would pause and apply a hot liquid to his wounds.

J. D. Jolly, union president, said a second attempt to seize Matthews occurred Wednesday night but Matthews got away. The Jones County sheriff's office reported it received word of another attempt being made against Matthews, but it was unable to uncover anything on the report.

The sheriff's office earlier reported its force was out all night with members of the FBI investigating the Monday night kidnapping.

The union's open declaration appeared in Thursday's edition of the Leader-Call, a newspaper which was hit by a bombing attack that wrecked sections of its plant last May. No one has been convicted.

J. W. West, editor and publisher, urged in an editorial Thursday that all Mississippi cities should follow the lead of Jackson, the capital, and Meridian in ordering all city employees to sign an oath that they are not members of any subversive organizations.

West noted that these oaths bar the employment of anyone belonging to an organization defined as subversive and wrote, "This is sound practice and should be followed by all Mississippi cities."

The union said, "presumably brother Matthews was kidnapped and attacked because the federal government had ordered Masonite — a large factory in Laurel — to treat the members of the Negro race exactly the same as the members of the white race."

Bills enacted to provide appropriations to a special group or region of the country is known as "pork-barrel" legislation.

Pope

little to save the Jews from Nazi extermination.

Der Spiegel said the documents U.S. diplomat Harold H. Tittmann as early as January 1943 that he believed Allied reports of the mass gassing of Jews "are a bit overdone for propaganda purposes."

"He never threatened Nazis with excommunication the way he did the Communists in 1949 and he never allowed himself to be moved by appeals from the Western Allies to bless the democracies' crusade against Adolf Hitler."

The documents show, Der Spiegel continued, that when the Pope did condemn Nazi crimes, he did so "in his filigree-type language and then only in general platitudes" and "he only protested if Catholics were involved."

Vatican sources have attacked "The Deputy" as a distorted view serving the interests of communism. Defenders of Pope Pius' wartime stand contend that he was profoundly grieved by the persecution of the Jews but believed that a stronger stand would have made things worse for them.

The British government published excerpts today from captured Nazi documents quoting a German diplomat in Rome as saying in 1941 that the Pope favored the Axis cause.

"In his heart, one is assured time and again, Pius XII stands on the side of the Axis powers," reported Fritz Menshausen, then counsellor of the German Embassy to the Vatican.

The British also made public a memorandum later in 1941, by Bernardo Attilio, then Italian ambassador to the Vatican. He said the Pope had expressed misgivings to him over the Nazi attitude toward the Catholic Church in Germany but that he continued to receive Germans freely at the Vatican.

Der Spiegel said the documents on which it based its story were accidentally discovered in the archives of the West German Foreign Ministry by Swiss historian Saul Friedlander while he was gathering material on Nazi policy toward the United States.

The British publication was part of a study of German policy between 1918 and 1945 that is being written on the basis of captured archives of the German Foreign Office. The 1,035-page volume issued today carried the study through 1941.

In Washington, the State Department made public German documents which included instructions from Nazi Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop for the German Embassy in Washington to wage a campaign among American Jews to keep America out of the war.

Increased Demand
Firms Commodities

CHICAGO (AP) — Increased demand firmed soybeans, corn and oats but wheat and rye finished lower Thursday on the grain futures market.

Speculative interests were active on the buying side of soybeans and longs sold on bulges. Demand, however, outweighed selling and prices finished well above previous closes.

At the close soybeans were 3-23/4 cents a bushel higher, January $2.86 7/8; wheat 1-1/8% lower, December $1.51 1/4; corn 1/2-% higher, December $1.22 21/4; oats 1/4-% higher, December 67 3/4-%, and rye 1 1/4-1 1/2% lower, December $1.23 3/4.

Leniency Is Shown

KANSAS CITY (AP) — All but one of 15 people charged with failure to make employee city earnings tax payments were shown leniency Thursday — in the first court action since the E-tax went into effect Jan. 1.

Six cases were continued, giving the accused another chance to pay. Eight who paid the taxes after their arrest, were continued and fined $25 each. One, Allen Dodd, proprietor of Jack's Wash Rack, was fined $100 by Judge Eugene R. Brouse.

Peter Wieclawski and Jerry Gzella, both 25, have been in Miami's Dade County Jail since mid-September.

They stayed away Sept. 1 on a Swedish ship that sailed to Savannah, Ga., from Sweden.

Assistant Budget
Director To Resign

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Arthur W. Betts will resign as assistant state budget director Dec. 15 to become research director for the Missouri State Chamber of Commerce succeeding William R. Brown.

Brown, who has held the job 15 years, has resigned to take a similar job with the Delaware state chamber.

The state chamber made the announcement officially Thursday.

Betts formerly was with the Missouri Public Expenditure Survey, the legislative research staff and the Arkansas Legislative Council.

As a hobby he formerly built light planes in his basement, assembled and flew them.

partial transcript of the FBI director's testimony, some of which was sharply critical of the State Department and some of the security measures taken to protect the president.

Wednesday he said there is "not a scintilla" of jealousy between the FBI and the Secret Service, which is charged by law with protecting presidents.

Efforts to reach the members of the Warren Commission, some of whom are traveling abroad, were not successful.

Hoover let fly his blast at Dr. King, head of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference in discussing civil rights. He called the Negro integrationist who recently was named winner of the Nobel Peace Prize a liar for advising Negroes not to report any civil rights violations to the Albany, Ga., FBI office because the staff members were all Southerners.

When he asked King to make an appointment so he could prove that four of the five men were born in the North, Hoover said, King would not make the appointment.

The FBI director went off the record for further comments about the minister.

An aide to King said that he was vacationing in the Bahamas and would have nothing to say until today at the earliest.

But in Houston, Tex., Aaron Henry, a Mississippi NAACP member, told newsmen in an interview that FBI agents in Southern states generally are not in sympathy with civil rights.

"I'll go further than that," said Henry, a Clarksville druggist. "J. Edgar Hoover is not in touch with civil rights."

B52 nuclear bombers and KC135 jet tankers will be moved out of Dow, Glasgow, Amarillo and Larson to other SAC bases in the next 3 1/2 years.

Schilling and Lincoln will receive no replacements after the retirement of aging B47 medium jet bombers and obsolescent Atlas ICBMs.

McNamara said the bomber base actions are intended to provide the best strategic deployment of the nation's 1,100-bomber force along with maximum utilization of major permanent bases.

The SAC base actions are expected to result in annual savings of $73.5 million.

McNamara said that 150 Atlas E, Atlas F and Titan I liquid-fuel missiles are being inactivated because of "our now sizable inventory of Titan II and Minuteman missiles which have far greater capabilities and can be operated and maintained at a fraction of the cost of the earlier models."

He estimated annual savings of $117 million.

Early this year, McNamara had indicated that the very first generation of the long-range Atlases would be shut down this fiscal year and that Titan I and Atlas Es would follow.

These are liquid-fuel, relatively slow-to-fire missiles which were the earliest in place while the United States was building up its advanced missile force of solid-fuel, quick-firing Minutemen.

Twenty-seven Atlas D model missiles already have been taken down.

McNamara's report indicated that 150 Atlas E, Atlas F and Titan I missiles would be removed from the firing line by July 1965.

The United States now has 650 of the fast-firing Minutemen which McNamara said have shown extraordinary reliability of performance.

Also in place are Titan II missiles which are liquid fuel but can be fired within one minute and are in protected underground bases.

In the next fiscal year, the Minuteman force will be up to about 800.
